Representatives Vote Action at Cincinnati Confab
OUTLINE COURSE
Factional Strife Enters Men's Clothing Industry

Cincinnati—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor voted today to raise a war chest to fight John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.

Representatives of the federation's loyal unions decided:

(1) To double the union dues to the federation, now 1 cent a month for each member, A. F. of L. leaders expect this to increase the federation's income by $35,000 a month.

(2) To start a coordinated organization campaign.

(3) To expel C. I. O. locals from city central bodies and state federations of labor.

(4) To have all loyal locals join these central bodies and state federations, to present a united front to the C. I. O.

Cincinnati—(AP)—The battle between John L. Lewis and William Green reached today the huge men's clothing industry today when the United Garment Workers declared war on the Amalgamated Clothing Workers.

Thomas Rickert, president of the United, a loyal American Federation of Labor union, asserted his organization no longer recognized an agreement dividing the territory with the Amalgamated, headed by Sidney Hillman, Lewis' first lieutenant in the committee for industrial organization.

Hillman destroyed the agreement, Rickert said, when he said it was "only a make-shift" and when the Amalgamated started using its own union labels, instead of the United's, in clothes its members made.

For many years the Amalgamated was outside the A. F. of L. It was admitted in 1933 when it agreed to divide the men's clothing territory with the United, but along with nine other unions which helped organize the C. I. O., the Amalgamated was suspended for "insurrection" last September.

Resume Conference
Meanwhile, a conference of loyal A. F. of L. union representatives went into its second day of discussing the C. I. O. and how to fight it after charges, promptly denied, that communists had obtained a firm grip on the C. I. O.

Leaders expected a vote before midnight on the executive council's fourfold plan:

(1) To increase the assessment on member unions from 1 to 2 cents a month for each member, to build up the war chest.

(2) Start a coordinated organization drive.

(3) Expel all C. I. O. locals from city central bodies and state federations of labor.

(4) Compel all loyal A. F. of L. locals to join these central bodies and state federations.

John P. Frey, veteran president of the federation's metal trades department, climaxed yesterday's

Dance Hall Regulation Is Upheld in Decision
Madison—(AP)—The state supreme court upheld today the right of Wisconsin county boards to enact ordinances regulating the closing hours of dance halls in towns.

Specifically the high court, in an opinion by Justice Joseph Martin, ruled that Chippewa county was within its rights in prohibiting public dancing between 1 a. m. Sunday and 6 a. m. Monday and on Christmas eve and Christmas day.

The decision was a reversal for B. F. Stetzer, operator of a tavern in the town of Hallie, Chippewa county, who charged that the county regulatory ordinance was unconstitutional.

The court said that the state law under which the ordinance was adopted has as its manifest purpose the regulation of dance halls and places of amusement, that the Chippewa county ordinance carries out that purpose and is clearly valid.

West Virginia university professors recently fed cows two quarts of tomato juice daily to learn whether the vitamin C content of their milk would increase. It did, but the milk tasted so unpalatable it couldn't be used. Nature can't always be improved upon. Nor hardly could the little Post-Crescent be improved upon. ## Privacy Rules Simple Funeral For Rockefeller

Family Shuns Publicity in Making Arrangements For Burial

North Tarrytown, N. Y.—(AP)—The body of John D. Rockefeller was borne northward today to waiting members of his immediate family, carried with the richness, exclusiveness, and lack of public formality which characterized his life.

Privacy was the keynote of all arrangements for final honors to the man who, although a great philanthropist, lived secluded, a shunner of public notice.

The body was in a special Pullman car attached to a New York-bound express from Ormond Beach, Fla., where the industrialist-philanthropist died suddenly Sunday morning, two months short of his ninety-eighth birthday. He lay in a simple but rich mahogany and bronze casket, bedecked with a few lilies. Friends had been asked not to send flowers.

The train was due in New York about 4 p. m. (C. S. T.). The funeral Pullman then was to be routed a few miles further northward to a private siding behind the 3,500-acre Rockefeller estate, Pocantico Hills, near where it was due about 6 o'clock p. m. (C. S. T.).

In the 47-room mansion on the estate waited his family, now headed by his only son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who is 63. The family

Rio Branch Bank Robbed of $1,000

Force Girl Teller and Two Customers to Lie On Floor

Rio, Wis.—(AP)—Two men held up two customers and the girl teller in the Rio branch of the Rio-Fall River Union bank today and fled with approximately $1,000 of bank funds.

The robbers, brandishing pistols, forced Miss Josephine Amundson, teller, and the customers to lie on the floor while they rifled the bank's cash drawers.

The time lock on the bank vault prevented the robbers from searching there for additional cash.

The pair fled through a rear door, ran half a block to their parked automobile and left the city, they headed east.

Sheriff Harry N. Hibner called out all his deputies and the vigilantes. The robbers were reported driving a black coach. One of the robbers was wearing overalls and a grey suit, and the other, who appeared to have an injured arm, was dressed in jumpers and a jacket.

Body of Negro Slaying Suspect Burned by Mob
Bainbridge, Ga.—(AP)—A mob seized the body of a Negro suspect in the killing of two white women, dragged it through the streets to a baseball park last night, and burned it. The Negro had been slain by officers who said he attempted to escape while on the way to jail at Albany.

Sheriff W. J. Calledge said the Negro was Willie Reed, 20, who confessed killing Mrs. Ruby Hurst, 30, and 16-year-old Vennie Mae Richards.

Miss Student Found On Lake Superior Island
Hancock, Mich.—(AP)—Barney Wilcox, 19, Michigan Tech student from Wyandotte, Mich., who has been lost on Isle Royale in Lake Superior since Friday, was found today "healthy and happy." George Bagley, national park service supervisor said.

Wilcox, who was separated from a party of student excursionists, was found by a party of searchers, and was on his way back to the mainland.

Woman Tells Of Shooting At Sheboygan

Heard Five Shots Fired When Patrolman Was Slain, She Says

Called For Help
Victim Asked Her to Phone For Ambulance, Witness Asserts

Sheboygan—(AP)—Mrs. Marie Mueller, whose testimony in German required the services of an interpreter, today told how three muffled shots and two loud ones disturbed her at her ironing at 3 o'clock a. m. on March 27, the day and hour Patrolman Theodore Hustling was shot fatally while routing an intruder from the "George and George" tavern.

Mrs. Mueller was one of six witnesses called by the state in the first degree murder trial of Norbert Joci, 28, charged with the killing of Hustling. Six other witnesses were called yesterday, the opening day of the trial.

The German-speaking witness who lives next to the tavern told the jury that while at her early morning ironing she heard shouts from the street including the word, "stop." Mrs. Mueller testified after the first four shots she looked out the window and saw Patrolman Hustling flashing his light. She recounted hearing a final shot and hearing the officer call for help when he was hit. Mrs. Mueller said she called to Hustling and he asked her to phone for an ambulance.

Other Witnesses
Also called to the stand this morning as state's witnesses were William Rothe, detective who arrested Joci at his home, Police Chief Walter H. Wagner, and three neighbors who told of hearing the revolver and blackjack taken from the tavern in an ash box at Joci's home when he searched it.

Drs. Willard M. Sonnenburg and Clarence N. Sonnenburg yesterday identified for the jury of 10 men and 2 women the bullet that killed Hustling. George Nehring and George Heerman, co-proprietors of the tavern, testified that Joci played cards at the tavern in the afternoon and evening, staying until nearly closing time. Nehring identified the revolver and blackjack which he kept under the bar. The revolver was the one from which the fatal bullet was fired.

Two other witnesses, William Schmidt and Louis Wendland, testified they had played cards with Joci the afternoon before the shooting. Nehring also told the jury that pinball machines in the tavern had been fired.

Fine Man $50 for Drunken Driving
Municipal Judge Orders Driver's License Revoked for Year

Arrested by Appleton police early Monday evening, Edward Weiland, 40, route 1, Hortonville, pleaded guilty of drunken driving when he was arraigned in the municipal court of Judge Thomas H. Ryan this morning.

Weiland was fined $50 and costs with an alternative of 60 days in the county detention camp. In addition, his driver's license was ordered revoked for one year.

Appleton police made the arrest on N. Richmond street about 8:30, and accused Weiland of running into a barricade.

Charles W. Nash Loses In Income Tax Battle
Washington—(AP)—Charles W. Nash of Kenosha, Wis., lost in the supreme court yesterday his effort to escape paying a federal income tax on $81,346 refunded to him by the state in 1932 after the Wisconsin income tax statute was declared unconstitutional.

The high court refused to pass upon a judgment against Nash by the seventh circuit court of appeals.

He paid $81,346 as state income taxes up to 1931, and deducted the payments in his federal returns. In 1931 the state act was ruled invalid. In 1932 the state refunded the $81,346, with $20,420 interest. Nash conceded the interest to be taxable by the federal government but contended a tax on the principal amount was barred by the statute of limitations.

BALLOON BURNS

Brussels—(AP)—Prof. Auguste Piccard's $35,000 stratospheric balloon was destroyed by fire today as final preparations were being made for a new ascent.

Flame from a gas burner used to heat air for lifting the balloon touched a pocket or fold in the bag just as the ground crew began attaching the basket in which Prof. Piccard was to have explored the sub-stratosphere. No one was injured. Both Piccard and Max Gwyns, his young associate, were standing close to the balloon when the lower part of the envelope burst into flame.

Recall Election At Kaukauna Is Set for July 3

Primary Will Be Necessary If More Than One Candidate Opposes Niesen

Kaukauna—The city council last night set Thursday, July 8, as the date for the election to recall Mayor John Niesen. The council chose the date at the suggestion of City Attorney Harry McAndrews after approving the resolution authorizing the recall read by Alderman Walter Kilgas, a member of the privileges and elections committee.

Nomination papers must be filed with city clerk by June 8, according to the statutes, and if more than one candidate enter the contest to oppose Niesen, a primary will be held two weeks before the election, Thursday, June 24.

Mayor Niesen voluntarily gave up the chair to Alderman W. H. Cooper, president of the council, after calling the meeting to order. He did not participate any further in the proceedings.

President Roosevelt Has Slight Head Cold
Washington—(AP)—President Roosevelt cancelled all of his appointments today and remained in the White House nursing a slight head cold.

His personal physician, Captain Ross T. McIntire advised him to remain away from the executive offices during the day to rest.

A White House secretary announced, however, that by Roosevelt would hold his regular press conference scheduled for 4 o'clock p. m.

Stephen T. Early, assistant secretary to the president, said the chief executive caught cold during a weekend trip on the Potomac river.

Pre-Nuptial Tests Bill Has Assembly Approval
Madison—(AP)—The assembly passed today, 76 to 9, a bill by Assemblyman Vernon Thomson (R), Richland Center, requiring pre-nuptial Wasserman tests for syphilis of both men and women.

The bill forbids issuance of marriage licenses unless tests taken by both parties show negative results.

A law now in effect exempts women from such examinations, but requires that males present a doctor's certificate to the licensing official showing they have no venereal disease.

The measure was messaged to the senate.

Assembly Wants All July Fourth and Memorial Days Celebrated on Mondays
Madison—(AP)—The bill of Assemblyman Robert E. Tehan (D), Milwaukee, which proposes to "give the workers a break" by celebrating the Fourth of July and Memorial day always on Monday, was sent to the senate today with the approval of the house.

Tehan said that official recognition of the holidays on Monday will give shop girls, factory men and office workers an opportunity for weekend outings so they can enjoy the outdoor privileges of the state.

The bill provides that whenever the legal holidays fall on a day other than Monday, the official observance be postponed until Monday of the following week. If the senate concurs, Wisconsin will observe Memorial day in 1939 on June 6 instead of May 31, and July 4 of 1939 will be celebrated on July 6.

The bill also creates a new legal holiday to be known as Wisconsin Vacationland day and to be observed on the first Monday of August.

Shelve Court Plan, Demand Of Opponents

Burke Cites Monday's Decision to Support His Position

COMPROMISE SEEN
President Gives No Indication of Yielding In Dispute

Washington—(AP)—The administration's victorious record at this term of the supreme court, climaxed by the social security decisions, generated new demands by opponents today for withdrawal of the Roosevelt judiciary reorganization bill.

Senator Burke (D-Neb.), a leader of the measure's foes, said the validation of unemployment insurance and old age pensions "knocked the last prop from under the court proposal."

Speaker Bankhead (D-Ala.) and Senator Robinson (D-Ark.), the majority leader, contended on the other hand that security rulings would have little effect on the court dispute.

Nevertheless many in the capital forecast an eventual compromise, although Mr. Roosevelt has given no indication he would yield.

Some administration supporters, pointing to the score of 12 victories and no defeats in this term of court, said the president's objectives were safe for the time at least.

Deny Emergency Exists
An emergency no longer existed, they added, contending congress now could devote its energies to other major legislation.

These four possibilities received the most discussion:

That wage and hour, farm, government reorganization and national planning legislation would get precedence over the court bill.

That the bill itself would give way to a constitutional amendment to compel retirement of justices at 70 or 75.

That a compromise authorizing the president to increase the supreme court by two justices—or some similar proposal—would forge to the front.

That the president would stand by his request for power to enlarge the court unless justices over 70 retire.

Predicts Compromise
Senator McGill (D-Kans.) predicted the court's latest decisions would result in approval of a compromise. Opposition senators have served notice, however, that even a bill for two more justices would be contested for weeks.

Followers on both sides studied the security decisions to bolster their arguments. All agreed that, in the Wagner act and social security cases especially, the court this term had adopted a constitutional viewpoint more in line with Roosevelt philosophy of strong national powers to deal with national problems.

The question, as expressed by advocates of court revision, was whether the court can be expected to continue along that line on other administrative legislation.

Soem said they would prefer to take no chances. Others would let the judiciary revision proposal "lie fallow" until future decisions might run counter to what the administration contends is the proper conception of federal authority.

Robbery Suspect Will Face Charge in Ohio
Madison—(AP)—George B. Goodman, 25, formerly of Spooner, Wis., was taken to Ohio by federal authorities late yesterday to face charges of bank robbery.

He started the trip shortly after Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone signed a removal order on a commissioner's warrant issued by United States District Attorney John J. Boyle.

Goodman was arrested in Janesville on a charge of complicity in a $7,000 robbery of two Madison Gas and Electric company employees in March, but Dane county officials waived rights to prosecute him. He had been in solitary confinement following an attempt to break jail.

Assembly Asks Data on State Relief Program
Madison—(AP)—The assembly adopted today without record vote a joint resolution asking Governor LaFollette and the state public welfare department to advise the legislature promptly what plans the administration has for a state relief program.

The authors, Assemblymen Rene Trepo (P), Merrill, and Carl M. Nelson (R), Medford, said more than 20 northern counties, which received a virtual promise from the state that they would be reimbursed for relief costs, have received no aid since January.

Both declared the counties are facing a serious financial problem and want to know where they stand on the relief question. The resolution was sent at once to the senate.

After four months of struggle over the issue of non-partisan election of county officials, the house definitely ended the controversy today by defeating a senate resolution which would have put the question to a statewide referendum.

Connery Seeks 30-Hour Week as He Strives to Speed Action in House

Three Killed as Train Hits Auto At West DePere

Machine Dragged 660 Feet: Police and Rail Officials Start Quiz

Green Bay—(AP)—Three men were killed today when their automobile was struck by a North Western railroad freight train at the Main avenue crossing in West De Pere.

The machine was dragged 660 feet down the right-of-way by the train which was northbound. The men, all laborers, were driving to work.

The dead: John A. Smet, 47, the driver. Andrew Carlson, 64, and Ernest Wilmet, 43.

Smet was thrown under the wheels of the engine and killed instantly. The others died about an hour after the accident in a hospital here.

Police and railroad officials were investigating in an effort to determine how the accident occurred.

L. A. George of Milwaukee, fireman of the train, said the car had been traveling along a road parallel with the tracks for about a block at a moderate rate of speed and then turned east at the crossing into the path of the engine.

The men, all of whom were employed at the Northwest Engineering Works, always drove to work together. They lived in West De Pere.

Smet is survived by his widow and four children. Wilmet by a widow and two children, and Carlson by his widow and five children.

CHILD IS KILLED
Oconto Falls—(AP)—Arlina Wichter, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Wichter, Swedentown farmers, died at an Oconto Falls hospital today of injuries received when she was struck by a truck driven by Lloyd Lacombe, Oconto, near the Swedentown cheese factory. Lacombe was not held.

Pittsburgh Firm Signs Contract

Inland Steel, Chicago, Refuses to Approve Proposals

Pittsburgh—(AP)—Chairman H. E. Lewis of the Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation signed a contract today recognizing the Steel Workers Organizing Committee as exclusive bargaining agency for the company's 27,000 workers.

Chicago—(AP)—Inland Steel company, largest independent employer in the industry in the Chicago area, refused today to sign a collective bargaining contract with the Steel Workers Organizing Committee.

The decision was announced after a half-hour conference at the Indiana Harbor offices of the company between a committee of four members of the steel committee and company representatives.

Van A. Bittner, Chicago regional director of the steel union group, said the company "flatly refused any kind of contract."

Bittner declined to state what plans he would take in the organization campaign at Indiana, which employs 12,000 men in this territory.

Two steps open to him are the calling of a strike or the petitioning of the national labor relations board for an employees' election to determine whether the union represents the majority of employees, as provided under the Wagner law.

Madison—(AP)—The assembly adopted today without record vote a joint resolution asking Governor LaFollette and the state public welfare department to advise the legislature promptly what plans the administration has for a state relief program.

Baptists Asked to Work for Limit on Personal Incomes

Philadelphia—(AP)—Baptists from 36 states were asked to work for legislation that would limit personal incomes.

A resolution to restrict maximum earnings and establish "a living minimum wage for every worker" was among proposals placed before the Northern Baptist convention for action at closing sessions today.

Earl V. Pearce, of Minneapolis, was nominated for election today for president.

The convention will meet in Milwaukee in 1938, Salt Lake City in 1939.

Teachers' Tenure Bill Near Final Assembly Action

House Advances Measure After Refusing to Adopt Amendments

Madison—(AP)—The assembly today reaffirmed its action of last week ordering the teachers tenure bill to final passage.

After consistently refusing the adoption of amendments designed to give local school boards more time to check over their teaching staffs before the bill would become effective, the house advanced the measure to third reading, 49 to 39.

It had taken similar action last week but by such a narrow vote that the sponsors agreed to have it reconsidered.

One purpose of reconsideration was to permit another roll call on the Biemiller amendment which would make permanent the positions only of those teachers not engaged in administrative work. This would have excluded most city superintendents.

Reject Amendment
Although Speaker Paul Alfonsi of Pence who led the fight for the bill agreed to the amendment to "save the tenure plan" the house refused for the second time to adopt it.

It also voted down two other amendments providing: (1) that the clause granting automatic tenure to teachers who have been in service five years be wiped out; the effect would have been to place all teachers beginning next year on a one-year probationary period; (2) that the act be delayed until August, 1938, to permit school boards to get rid of undesirable teachers.

While proponents of the amendments maintained that the bill is unfair to school boards, Alfonsi argued that boards still would be able to use their discretion on teachers of less than five years experience.

A motion by Assemblyman Maurice Fitzsimons (D), Fond du Lac, to place the bill on passage today was defeated. The majority did not have sufficient votes to suspend the rules.

The board also could set standards for intrastate industries whose products affect or compete with goods in interstate trade.

The bill provides that the board can set a minimum pay rate in excess of 80 cents an hour or $1200 a year.

Small industries would be exempt. Just where the line will be drawn must be decided by congress. Connery suggested 15 employees.

Agricultural laborers would be excluded from the bill's provisions along with any person employed in an executive, administrative, supervisory or professional capacity.

Board findings would be based on public hearings.

Green Studies Bill
William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declined to comment until he had studied it. He said Sunday, however, some unions might oppose establishment of minimum wages lest congress subsequently might set maximum wages.

Although the Black-Connery bill provides that all industries in interstate commerce would have to come up to its standards, a five-member board studying conditions industry by industry could set a minimum "fair wage" or maximum "reasonable work week" either higher or lower than the national standards, where local or geographical factors warranted.

Vote to Repeal Law on Deficiency Judgments
Madison—(AP)—The assembly passed a bill today to repeal the law permitting the granting of deficiency judgments in mortgage foreclosure proceedings.

The bill, sponsored by Assemblyman Joseph L. Garvens (D), Milwaukee, was approved over the objections of house members who contended it would restrict the borrowing power of farmers and home owners.

Under the present law, if a foreclosed property sells for less than the face value of the mortgage, the court has discretionary power to grant a deficiency judgment against the mortgagor for the difference.

Proponents of the repeal bill claimed that investors should take the same chance as the mortgagor on the fluctuating value of property.

City Election Measure Given LaFollette O. K.
Madison—(AP)—Governor LaFollette signed today the Wagner bill requiring each candidate for a city office to file a declaration of intention to serve in the office to which he might be elected not later than 10 o'clock p. m. five days after the last day of filing nomination papers.

The bill, sponsored by Assemblyman Herman B. Warner (P), Milwaukee, was introduced at the request of the city of Milwaukee election commission.

Eleven Executed For Sabotage in Siberian District
Moscow—(AP)—Eleven persons were reported today to have been executed at Khabarovsk in the Far East, bringing to 35 the number to death in Siberia within the last few days on charges of sabotage under the direction of Japanese intelligence agents.

The death sentences were announced in a terse communique published in the newspaper Pacific Star at Khabarovsk on May 15. The news reached Moscow today.

The communique said the executions were decreed by a secret session of the military collegium of the supreme court, the same tribunal that sentenced 44 others to death at Svobodny, near Khabarovsk, on the eastern border of Siberia and Manchoukuo.

The charges were identical in Trotskyist spy, terrorist and diversionistic organizations, acting under the directions and instructions of Japanese intelligence organizations.

Specific counts against the executed persons charged them with having sabotaged the Siberian railway system which is part of the Russian military communication and transportation network.

Agrees With Chairman Black of Senate Labor Group

ASKS $16 MINIMUM
'If Necessary, I Would Go as High as 40 Hours,' He Says

Washington—(AP)—Chairman Connery (D-Mass.) of the house labor committee, arranging for quick consideration of the administration wage and hour bill, expressed a preference today for setting the maximum work week at 30 hours.

"Both Chairman Black of the senate labor committee and I are for a 30-hour week," he said. "If necessary, though, I would go as high as 40 hours."

Minimum wage and maximum hour figures were left blank in the bills which the two chairmen introduced yesterday after President Roosevelt recommended enactment of labor conditions that "meet rudimentary standards of decency."

Connery said he would insist on at least a $16 minimum weekly wage for employees engaged in interstate commerce or producing goods for interstate shipment.

No Definite Agreement
Black said, however, he had no definite agreement with the representative on wage and hour figures. He added there might be many changes in the measure, but Connery predicted the senate would approve the bill "just about as it is."

Senate hearings may begin this week. Connery scheduled his hearings to start next Tuesday and predicted a report on the bill in three weeks.

The measure would exclude from interstate commerce goods products under "oppressive" labor conditions, such as working employees more hours or paying smaller wages than the standards set by congress, using child labor, and hiring labor spies and strikebreakers.

A senate interstate commerce subcommittee completed meanwhile the rough draft of a separate child labor bill which Chairman Johnson (D-Colo.) said fulfilled the president's recommendations on that point.

Leaders had not yet decided whether it would be considered as a separate measure.

The president's labor message brought an expression of satisfaction from John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Green Studies Bill
William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declined to comment until he had studied it. He said Sunday, however, some unions might oppose establishment of minimum wages lest congress subsequently might set maximum wages.

Government Will Get Major Share Of Hatten Estate

Inheritance Taxes Explained at Lions Club Luncheon Meet

Because of inheritance taxes, the government will get the major share of W. H. Hatten estate at New London when it finally is settled, W. E. Smith, district manager of the New England Mutual Life Insurance company, told members of the Lions club yesterday at their luncheon meeting at the Conway hotel.

Mr. Hatten made no provisions, before his death, which would make his heirs exempt from the state and national inheritance and gift taxes, Mr. Smith said. In comparison to this, the speaker explained, the government probably will get little of the John D. Rockefeller estate because arrangements probably have been made which will exempt heirs from the various taxes.

Any person can avoid part of the inheritance and gift taxes by transferring securities to his heirs before his death, the speaker said. Under the federal gift tax law, a person is permitted to make an initial gift up to $40,000 to any one person and also is permitted to give $5,000 each year to as many people as he wants, Mr. Smith explained.

State Law Provisions
State laws provide that gifts of $15,000 to a wife and $2,000 to each child are tax exempt but that after the above maximums are reached, gifts of only $3,000 to a wife and $400 to each child each year are tax free, Mr. Smith explained.

After the state and federal governments enacted inheritance tax laws, people began giving their property to heirs before death in an effort to evade the tax, the speaker explained, but the governments then enacted gift tax laws.

Insurance is directly connected with the inheritance and gift tax laws because the federal law allows a $40,000 exemption if an insurance policy is made out to a named beneficiary, Mr. Smith stated.

In explaining insurance, the speaker said that if an independent working woman, who files an income tax return, takes out an insurance policy on her husband she is exempt from an inheritance tax if her husband dies.

By giving property away before death, a person profits in that he does not have to pay high income taxes or surtaxes, he stated.

LEWIS SPURS CIO TEXTILE DRIVE

John L. Lewis, bushy-browed generalissimo of the Committee for Industrial Organization, has invaded the heart of New England's great textile industry to rally workers to his cause. He is shown addressing a crowd at Lawrence, Mass., estimated by police at between 10,000 and 15,000.

Memorial Day Drivers Urged to Use Caution

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—Outagamie county motorists planning a trip over the holiday next weekend should give first consideration to their safety, the state highway commission's safety department warned today, in order to prevent the automobile accidents in that county last Memorial day.

Last year's Memorial day weekend cost 15 lives, brought injury to 146 persons and piled up a list of 166 serious automobile accidents throughout the state, the department's announcement said.

"Safety leaders urge motorists to start early enough to allow plenty of time to reach a destination without speeding, to expect traffic jams and delays, to take advantage of the morning hours when the traffic flow is lightest, to do as little traveling after dark as possible and to be especially careful on curves, hills and intersections," said the department.

"The motorists who are going out for a 30 mile an hour pleasure ride should stay off the main federal and state routes, and take to the more scenic bituminous routes," the state safety authorities pointed out. "For the slow driver encourages the cut-in driver and frequently is responsible for accidents when traffic is heavy."

Ralph Schubert Gets Eagle Scout Ranking
Ralph Schubert was awarded Eagle Scout ranking at the St. Theresa Boy Scout troop court of honor last night at the school hall. Mothers of scouts attended the session which was arranged by Ivan Stone, scoutmaster, and members of the troop committee.

Tenderfoot awards were made to Edward Van Heuklen, James Smith, Bob Murphy, James Lueck, Leroy Heimermann, Florian J. Heimermann, John Grootmont, Lawrence Blich and Warren Williams.

Jenn Utschig was the only scout to be advanced to first class ranking. Scouts receiving second class awards were Francis Fisher, Lawrence Held, Robert Jacobs, Merlin Kimball, Richard Van Ryzin, John Wolf, Nathan Hopfensperger and Harold Belonger.

Application for Tavern Licenses Being Taken

meeting by accusing the C. I. O. and the Communist party of "sleeping in the same bed and under the same tent."

In Grip Of Reds
Communists had obtained such a grip on the Lewis movement that C. I. O. leaders could not shake them off if they wanted to, Frey said. He contended the C. I. O. had 60 communist organizers on its pay roll and that C. I. O. tactics were discussed in Moscow long before they were discussed in Lewis' office.

Charles P. Howard, president of the International Typographical union and the lone C. I. O. member at the conference, laughed at Frey's accusations.

"Those whom the gods would destroy, they not only make mad but make them see red," he smiled. Eventually, Frey said, the Communist party expected to take over the C. I. O. for its own purposes.

Hits Federation
Howard assailed the federation for suspending the Lewis Rebels, saying that suspension was responsible for most of the present trouble between the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. He concluded by defending the C. I. O.'s organization policy and criticizing that of the federation.

"Any organization that can't succeed in organizing more than 10 per cent of the workers in 50 years is too slow for me," he declared.

Daniel J. Tobin, president of the Teamsters' (truck drivers) union, brought a rasp from many delegates when he said "you know, those fellows on the other side of the fence have done a lot of good work."

A blunt-spoken Irishman and veteran of many a labor war, Tobin pledged his union to pay the double assessment but warned federation officials the money must be spent to "organize the unorganized," not to fight other labor organizations.

FORD UNION DRIVE IN FULL SWING

With Richard Frankenstein (left) in control, the United Automobile Workers campaign to organize Ford Motor company broke into the open with announcement by the union of the opening of campaign headquarters in Detroit. Frankenstein said he hoped to sign a majority of the 90,000 employees in the Dearborn plant, the world's largest single industrial unit. He is shown in conference with Homer Martin, president of the union.

Little Labor Trouble Reported in Fox Valley Since Board Was Formed

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—Unlike the other industrial sections of the state, the Fox river valley has had little labor trouble since the creation and the beginning of operations of the Wisconsin Labor Relations board, members of that body reported yesterday.

"No news is good news," Voyta Wrabetz, chairman of the state industrial commission and newly chosen chairman of the labor board, said in effect when questioned on the activities of the board in the Fox river valley manufacturing area. Workers and unions in the paper mills and other plants in the valley are satisfied with their employers' labor policies and the conditions of their employment, the board's report indicates.

Only 2 Cases
Only two strikes in the valley area have thus far come to the board's attention, according to Dr. E. E. Witte, a member, and both of these were in progress before the new agency was organized. Negotiations are now being made both at the Oshkosh woodworkers' strike and in the strike of employees of the Automatic File and Index company at Green Bay.

Another strike at Appleton, by the employees of the Konz Box and Lumber company, was settled amicably several weeks ago, and no other troubles in the city or in the city's area have been reported to the board, Mr. Wrabetz said.

Much of the board's work to date has been devoted to the prevention of labor disputes, said J. K. Kyle, secretary of the board, while Dr. Witte pointed out that since the appointment of board representatives in 10 important cities, including Appleton and Green Bay, much of the routine work will be handled by them.

Represent Board
In Green Bay W. W. Hield of the state employment office has been named the board's personal representative, with a territory corresponding to the area now served by the employment office, namely, all the counties in the Green Bay area.

Appleton Fred Gehrk, also of the state employment office, will handle the board's affairs, and will serve the area adjacent to Outagamie county.

These representatives, Dr. Witte said, will receive complaints, make investigations, and "do what they can to get the disputants in labor troubles together."

"In an increasing number of cases the board is being called upon for assistance in advance of strikes, and in a very large percentage of these cases it has been successful in preventing any interruption of employment," Kyle said.

Privacy Rules Simple Funeral For Rockefeller

had hurried from points as far away as the Panama Canal zone to attend simple final rites in the great hall at 10 o'clock a. m. (E. S. T.) tomorrow. It was not known exactly how many of the 26 children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren would be able to attend.

The ceremonies will be strictly private, with only a handful of business associates and a few trusted servants present, in addition to the family.

Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of the Riverside Baptist church in New York, built by Rockefeller, will read from the scriptures; the Rev. Lester H. Bent, pastor of the Pocomatic Hills Union church, will participate; a few hymns best-loved by Rockefeller will be sung, and that will be all.

Burial at Cleveland
Late tomorrow the casket again will be placed in the special Pullman and taken to Cleveland, where Rockefeller launched his fabulous career. He will be buried there Thursday with rites as simple as those arranged here.

The Rockefeller neighbors here had flags at half-staff today, but this was about the only sign of public notice of the death. At the wish of the family, as "John D." himself would have had it, there was a minimum of public ceremony.

No special rite was planned for the body's arrival in New York. Some of the Standard Oil company officials planned five-minute periods of silence in a suspension of operations tomorrow.

Accompanying the body northward were Mrs. Fannie Evans, Rockefeller's hostess for many years; Ward Madison, his secretary; Mrs. Florence A. Mitchell, a friend of Mrs. Evans, and five employees.

In addition to his son, Rockefeller's only other living child, Mrs. E. Parmelee Prentice of Williams-town, Mass., was here. Two grandsons, Nelson and Winthrop Rockefeller, were expected today or tomorrow after plane flights from the Canal Zone. Other members of the immediate family to attend the services were hurrying by train from Illinois, New Jersey, and Connecticut.

Nearly a score of sad servants were left behind at "The Casements," Rockefeller's Florida home where they paid their last respects yesterday at simple services.

Oshkosh Girl Placed On Probation to Board
Delores Bantin, 20, Oshkosh, pleaded guilty in municipal court Monday afternoon of obtaining goods by false pretenses and was sentenced to 1 to 3 years at Taycheedah. She was placed on probation for the full term.

Miss Bantin, who also paid $5 and costs for operating a motor vehicle without a driver's license, was arrested by Appleton police. The "goods" involved in the false pretense charge was a wrist watch valued at $35.

Realty Transfers
The following real estate transfers were filed today at the office of A. L. Collar, Outagamie county register of deeds:

A. J. Koch to George Greisch, a lot in the Sixth ward, Appleton.

Alois M. Versteegen to Edgar Versteegen, a lot in the village of Little Chute.

Face Challenge of Unemployment, Is Father Haas' Plea

Both Industrialist, Worker Must Think for Selves, He Asserts

Milwaukee—The Rev. Francis J. Haas, member of the newly-created Wisconsin labor relations board told 10,000 delegates to the Catholic Action conference "the challenge of a standing army of 4,000,000 to 11,000,000 unemployed cannot be met by merely saying 'no regimentation, no dictatorship, no communism.'"

Father Haas spoke on "The Social Encyclicals and Our Social Needs" at the auditorium last night. Catholic leaders said the meeting was one of the largest of its kind ever held here.

"That condition," Father Haas continued, "demands that the industrialist who has been hiring out his thinking on labor policies to subordinates, do his thinking himself. It demands also that the worker who has been accepting the rosy promises of some irresponsible labor organizers examine these promises and form his own judgments on what industry can and cannot do." He also stressed the need of minimum standards of prices and wages.

Not Political Move
Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch explained Catholic action does not mean entry of the church into politics nor into purely economic controversies. It means, he said, that Catholics live the principles which make Christ the supreme ruler of man's soul and the institution of man.

Dorothy Day, editor of the Catholic Worker, urged the popularization of the teaching of the church on economic questions to "permit the introductions of long range programs into labor unions to forestall communism."

In another conference address, Mrs. George N. Fell, president of the Catholic Women's Council of Toledo, Ohio, said, "Catholic women must dare to be old-fashioned."

"If to be decent is to be old-fashioned," she said, "then let us be old-fashioned. If to be the mothers of children is outmoded, then let us be out of date, and if to drink to excess is modern, then let us not be modern."

Speaking on the importance of Catholic action in rural schools, Prof. John P. Treacy of Marquette university urged the establishment of courses in Catholic teaching institutions which would prepare teachers to really serve the needs of the rural school child.

Bankers Group to Elect New Heads

Outagamie County Association Will Meet at Kaukauna

New officers will be elected at a meeting of the Outagamie County Bankers association at 6:30 Wednesday evening at Kaukauna. The meeting will be held at Hotel Kaukauna, and officers, directors and employees of all banks in the county have been invited to attend. The meeting will be preceded by a dinner.

The association's constructive public relations program will be discussed and motion pictures of activities at the federal reserve bank of Minneapolis will be shown. Present officers of the association are O. A. Hansen, Appleton, president; John Vande Loo, Kaukauna, vice president; and Jacob Hahn, Nichols, secretary and treasurer.

STRIKE SPREADS
Milwaukee—Operations at an eighth Milwaukee laundry were halted today by a spreading A. F. of L. strike. The Eastern Laundry Co., was the latest firm hit. Union officials claimed all workers walked out. The company said it employs between 35 to 40 persons.

Social Security Decision Is Based On AAA Precedent

Interpretation of General Welfare Clause Written More Than Year Ago

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—The Supreme court handed down its 6 to 3 decision—that the "New Deal won and lost" that day have found confirming evidence in the way the general welfare clause of the constitution has just been relied upon to uphold the social security law.

What happened this week is not by any means related to the president's public effort to influence supreme court decisions. Any such construction of what the supreme court has done ignores the true meaning of the decision written by Justice Roberts in the famous AAA case which now is quoted as chief reliance by Justice Cardozo in upholding for example, the federal old-age benefits law.

On Jan. 7, 1936, this correspondent wrote a dispatch which said in part: "The New Deal won and lost in the AAA case. True, the administration was reversed by a 6 to 3 opinion in its attempt to use the taxing power as a means of regulating agriculture, but the supreme court unanimously upheld the Alexander Hamilton conception of the use of the spending power of congress for the 'general welfare'."

"This judgment, rendered for the first time in American history, may well be considered to transcend in importance the ephemeral issues presented in the matter of a processing tax or a particular scheme for regulating agricultural production."

May Spend for Relief
What the opinion means is that congress is affirmed in its right to levy and collect taxes and to spend the money for whatever purposes it pleases, so long as, in the spending of the money, congress doesn't attempt any regulatory schemes or enact any laws that come into direct conflict with the powers of the federal government or the several states as specified or enumerated in the federal constitution....

Congress tomorrow could pay out all the money it wished to relieve unemployment in cities or to help farmers, but it cannot tie this expenditure up in any way with control of acreage.

Broadly speaking the opinion of Justice Roberts, speaking for the majority of the court, gives the New Deal a concession that its supporters had hoped for but hardly expected. Only the ballot of the people can now restrain unwise expenditure, for the supreme court says the words "to provide for the general welfare" have a specific meaning just like any other enumerated power.

Forget Broad Principle
When the foregoing interpretation, written, of course, more than a year before the president announced his message asking congress to enlarge the supreme court because of its decisions, is compared with Justice Cardozo's latest decision, it is to be seen that the New Deal, in its outburst of disappointment, had its mind focused on a single law—the AAA—and not on the broad principle, and that a system of bounties to the farmers, if included in some scheme that omits the coercion features which invalidated the AAA, might be held constitutional.

Justice Cardozo's exact words yesterday on the general welfare clause were these: "Congress may spend money in aid of the 'general welfare'. There have been great statesmen in our history who have stood for other views. We will not resurrect the contest. It is now settled by decision. United States v. Butler, supra. (The AAA case)."

The conception of the spending power advocated by Hamilton and strongly reinforced by Story has prevailed over that of Madison, which has not been lacking in adherents.

Must Draw Line
"Yet difficulties are left when the power is conceded. The line must still be drawn between particular and another, between particular and general. Where this shall be placed cannot be known through a formula in advance of the event. There is a middle ground or certainly a penumbra in which discretion is large. The discretion, however, is not confined to the courts. The discretion belongs to congress, unless the choice is clearly wrong, a display of arbitrary power, not an exercise of judgment."

The dissenting opinions this week, it will be noted, did not question the view of the general welfare clause which had previously been handed down, but did argue that the scheme of social security was as coercive in its effect upon the states as, by analogy, the AAA scheme was held to be coercive upon the individual farmers.

Decision Is Law
But the supreme law of the land today is the decision of Justice Cardozo, and it is significant that he shows where the line may be drawn in the future if congress proceeds in an unlimited sense to levy taxes and then spend the money in pursuance of some regulatory scheme or some object which cannot be construed to be "the general welfare."

Certainly, as far as the court has gone is to contend that unemployment insurance and old age benefits are decidedly objects within the meaning of the "general welfare" clause and that the congress may levy taxes for that purpose and that it may tax payrolls just as it has put an excise tax on other aspects of modern business activity.

Based on Precedent
If it be said that the social security decisions rendered by the supreme court have tended to reduce the chances of passage of President Roosevelt's bill to enlarge the supreme court, it is not because the court has bowed to the will of the New Deal under pressure, as some mistakenly allege, but because the decisions of the court, begun long before the Feb. 5 message was proclaimed, were clearly developing, in progressive and liberal fashion in lawsuit after lawsuit, some points that never had been raised before because comparable circumstances had never arisen. Thus, the Madison-Hamilton controversy, settled in January, 1936, after 100 years of debate, furnished the basis for the decisions this week, and government counsel frankly based their briefs and their arguments on those very points and won.

Not since Jan. 6, 1936, has there been any logical reason why the present administration should really be at odds with the supreme court of the United States. For on that day it affirmed the legality of the principal instrument of benevolence or political weapon—depending on the point of view—which a federal administration, with its spending program of billions, has been applying in its "war on depression."

Volunteers Will Distribute 7,000 Poppies Saturday

American Legion Auxiliary in Charge Of Sale

Seven thousand small red flowers, made by disabled war veterans, will be offered for sale Saturday, annual poppy day, by the American Legion auxiliary in the city. No set price is asked for the flower which is worn in memory of the men of the World War who have paid the supreme sacrifice.

The poppy first came into prominence when Colonel McCrea wrote his poem, "In Flanders Fields." Because the poppy had a very definite connection with World War service and grew everywhere in France it became the universally recognized symbol of World War sacrifice.

All of the auxiliary's poppy day workers will serve as unpaid volunteers, giving their time to bring the memorial flowers to the city and to permit every penny of the contributions to go to the welfare of the needy victims of the war.

Members of the general committee are busy this week with final preparation for the day. Volunteer workers have been divided into teams and each team assigned to a specific location in the city.

Sale of the large poppies for display purposes was begun today.

Cattle in County to Get Tuberculosis Test

Outagame county is due this year for an area test under the state's program for elimination of bovine tuberculosis and veterinarians who do the work are expected here this week.

The area test will include all cattle in the county and will be the first complete test since 1931. At that time 62,561 cattle were tested in 3,681 herds.

Dr. H. J. O'Connell of the department of markets will be in charge of the test. In a communication to R. C. Swanson, county agent, department officials recalled cooperation of Outagame county farmers in 1931 and asked continued help this year.

Woman Gets Divorce On Charge of Cruelty

A divorce from Walter Palmbach, 39, Appleton, has been granted to Mrs. Merle Palmbach, 24, route 2, Appleton, in the municipal court of Judge Thomas H. Ryan.

Mrs. Palmbach charged cruel and inhuman treatment and the suit was not contested. There were no children and no alimony was ordered. The couple married in Appleton Oct. 26, 1933 and separated May 4, this year.

Koss Places Second In Marbles Tourney

Chester Koss, winner of the Outagame county WPA marbles tourney, placed second in the district meet at DePere Saturday. Ten counties were represented. N. Western, Green Bay, took first place in the 3-way play-off with third going to an Oshkosh boy.

Weston will represent the second district in the state finals at Milwaukee June 5 with Koss as the alternate. Hubert J. Piette, county WPA recreation director, was in charge of the county meet held earlier this month.

Soil surveys have been completed in 26 Oklahoma counties and soil maps have been published for 13 counties.

Tells of Standing Death Watch for Enrico Caruso

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
New York—At 6:45 Sunday morning, T. J. Ross, who appears to be Ivy Lee's successor as the Rockefeller's press agent, telephoned the three big press associations simultaneously and flashed the death of old John D. fulfilling an agreement proposed several years ago by Bob Bender who was then news manager of the United Press. Mr. Bender realized that the old man's time was almost up, but he wanted to avoid the bother and expense of a constant death watch over a period of years, and put his idea up to Mr. Lee, who agreed to play ball.

Bob and Ivy both died before the "lash came, but their agreement carried over, and the Rockefeller's, as well as the press associations, were spared the inconvenience of a death watch which is one of the most distasteful jobs in the newspaper business, unpleasant to the reporters who feel a resemblance to the wheezing buzzard, and to the family of the dying person who also note a resemblance as they peer out the windows at the ink-stained wretches of the fourth estate.

I have sat three big death watches, for Enrico Caruso, John F. Hyland and King George V of England, but I must be a bird of not very ill omen, because Caruso and Hyland recovered, and lived on for some time. The Caruso death watch was held in the lobby of the Vanderbilt hotel, and lasted about a week. The lobby was filled with reporters from the press associations and New York papers, including the Italian, and men from the foreign press.

Reporters ate and slept in Vanderbilt Hotel Lobby
The managers and clerks and house-cops were civil, but we were a nuisance nevertheless, for we couldn't afford to trade at the Vanderbilt dining room, and would send a runner out for sandwiches, and sit in the big plush chairs eating out of paper bags. When it came late at night we would pick one to stay awake, and the rest would doze on the furniture like so many sleep-outs in Battery park, and all this tended to give the place an uncouth appearance to the paying customers.

It needn't have been so if Bruno Zirato, who was Caruso's secretary, had been a little more composed, but he was so upset that he couldn't discuss the possibility of Caruso's death. He would weep and wring his hands and carry on so that nobody could even suggest an arrangement that might have been very helpful all around.

So we just sat around the clock for days, sending out little bulletins about the new oxygen tanks going up the elevator, and pulse and respiration data from the doctors, and sneaking up the stairs now and again on the chance that some commotion in the hall might reveal the death of Caruso.

Was on Death Watch When Queen Victoria Died
Then Caruso got well and went back to Italy where he died suddenly.

Pegler

castle, and he tore down the street in the rain yelling, "She's dead! She's dead!"

Officials Aided Reporters
When King Was Dying
The death watch on King George was enormous, with a couple of hundred men gathered around the Three Feathers inn, at a little town near Sandringham, sleeping in chairs, on the stairs and on the tables, and with telegram crews working through the night installing wires and phones.

The king was protected, however, for the Sandringham gates were far from the house and the Three Feathers inn was several miles away, and the household officials, realizing the importance of the flash, did everything they could to ease matters.

The king lived through the night that I was there, and I am told that the handling of the flash and bulletin copy out of the Three Feathers inn was amazingly quick and efficient when he died. But it was outside the gates of Buckingham that night, and the flash was about an hour late there.

There were dozens of Americans at Sandringham, but our tribe has become civilized since Victoria's time, and nobody raced down the road shouting, "He's dead! He's dead!"

Nanking, China, has a population of 1,000,000, compared with 350,000 in 1927.

Asks Opposition To Road Fund Cut

Nelson Claims Proposed Payment to Municipalities Is Unsound

Claiming that $3,000,000 in state trunk highway money will be lost to the state if the senate passes bill 583-A, Senator Phil Nelson, Superior, appealed today for opposition to the proposal which would use that amount of road money for payment of local allotments reduced in 1932-34.

"Highway construction and modernization are two of the most important problems facing the state today and this bill would cause serious curtailment in state highway progress," he charged. "Highway improvement," he said, "is a paramount factor in combating the alarming increase in fatal auto accidents and is the life blood of our state tourist business."

Senator Nelson claimed the bill is economically unsound, not only because it would reduce the state highway fund, but because this amount of money distributed over towns, villages, cities and counties would be spread so thinly as to be ineffective in all but the larger local units. The $3,000,000 could better be used to complete paving projects on main trunk routes, he said.

Such a reduction in highway construction funds would be a serious blow to counties already heavily bonded and would force other counties to bond in order to obtain federal highway aid and carry out planned projects on state roads, Senator Nelson contended.

Schneider Asks Probe of Wages Of All Workers

Wisconsin Congressman Cites Meager Statistics Now Available

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)
Washington—As the President was preparing his message on maximum hour and minimum wage legislation in basic interstate industries, Representative George J. Schneider, progressive from Appleton, Wis., proposed a sweeping investigation by the department of labor to determine the annual earnings of unskilled and semi-skilled workers.

In proposing the investigation, Schneider, who is a papermaker himself and an officer of the international union, cited the meager statistics available concerning the low wages among the unskilled and semi-skilled in the railroad and textile industries.

The United States Children's Bureau, in 1929, found "a picture of poverty" among the railroad maintenance of way workers, showing inadequate housing, inadequate food, and overcrowded housing, resulting in loss of children's health, Schneider said.

Adverse Effect
These conditions, Schneider said, "adversely affect the public welfare, undermine the standard of living of the United States, and retard possible utilization of our total productive capacity."

They lead, he said, to illiteracy, lower the national health, cause juvenile delinquency, increase infant mortality, and greatly reduce national purchasing power.

"We are about to enact a national labor law," Schneider said, "and we don't really know anything about what the conditions are. We don't know who has suffered most from wage reductions. I am sure it is the unskilled and semi-skilled workers."

The resolution calls for an investigation of basic wages, annual incomes, machine displacements, irregularity of employment, and employment conditions affecting unskilled and semi-skilled workers in both public and private employment. Schneider is a member of the Labor Committee, to which the resolution was referred.

Children's Deaths Decrease in State

Madison—Death tolls among Wisconsin children between one and four years of age decreased to 541 in 1936, the state board of health announced today, showing a drop of 131 from the annual average for the six preceding years.

Pneumonia and traffic accidents headed the list of death causes, the former taking 106 lives and accidents 93 lives.

Other death causes reported by the board included diarrhea and enteritis, 40 deaths; influenza, 36; scarlet fever, 25; tuberculosis 21; and appendicitis, 19 deaths.

Texas in 1936 broke all its records by terracing, contouring and listing on the contour 3,976,244 acres of land.

ger. This Dr. Bridgman says is "highly paradoxical."

But he concludes it may be an actual fact and may explain some of the puzzles of changes that take place under pressure. He suggests the swelling may be the result of cooperation among the electrons of the atoms.

PWA Officials Study Application for Grant

The common council recently applied for the grant upon the request of the school board after it was learned the original government grant was insufficient to cover cost of the equipment.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY JEAN HARLOW
(Guest Columnist For Robbin Coons)

Hollywood—Hollywood is a place in which to work, not to play. No snickers, please. I know. I work here.

In two years I have been out to night clubs just three times and then only to accompany friends. During vacations and brief weekend rests, I haven't been farther from Hollywood than Lake Arrowhead, a mountain resort three hours by automobile from my home.

Oh, yes, I know that I went to Washington with my mother and Robert Taylor to attend the president's birthday party. It was a thrilling and tremendously interesting experience, but not exactly play. I was two weeks recuperating from making that 6,000-mile trip in nine days.

Appearing in from four to six pictures a year leaves an actress little time for play. After finishing "Personal Property" I had exactly a week to rest before starting preparations for "Saratoga." I wear 25 costumes in the new picture and the fittings took me to the studio almost every day for two weeks, although this was my vacation. Make-up tests and hair dress also required a great deal of my time.

Just when I might have had a few days' vacation, Director Jack Conway called me back to the studio to start work. While a picture is in production, my days follow a strict routine. I try to be in bed by nine o'clock, to be up at seven, at the studio by eight and on the set by nine.

I never give formal parties, preferring to have a few close friends drop in once a week, usually on a Friday or Saturday evening. My guests rarely number more than ten, and generally include Barbara Stanwyck, Clark Gable and Carole Lombard, W. S. Van Dyke and Mrs. Van Dyke, Bill Powell and Carey Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, the former Carmelita Gheraghy.

Sunday mornings I have my one breakfast in bed—big treat of the

Under The Capitol Dome

By John Wyngaard
Post-Crescent Staff Correspondent

BY JOHN W. WYNGAARD
Madison—Reports that Progressives want Senator Herman J. Severson of Iowa, veteran Waupaca county legislator, on their 1938 state ticket have been circulating in Madison political circles recently.

The Progressive higher-ups, so the rumor goes, believe that Severson, oldest member in point of service in the upper house, has won enough recognition throughout the state as a public servant and a lawyer to furnish excellent timber for a higher state office.

Whatever the accuracy of the report, Mr. Severson is steadfast in his opposition to at least one favorite piece of legislation of Governor LaFollette this session, the judicial retirement bill, already defeated in the assembly, but expected to be revived in the senate. The senator has refused to have the bill sponsored by his judiciary committee.

Legislative junkies were the subject of considerable critical comment in the assembly by Assemblyman Mark Catlin, Jr., of Appleton, who apparently does not believe that tax funds should be spent to send legislators to expositions, carnivals and similar celebrations whenever they occur.

Catlin opened fire during his unsuccessful attempt to reconsider the assembly vote by which appropriations for participation in the Golden Gate International Exposition in 1939, the New York World's fair, and the Northwest Territorial celebration were approved.

"There is much hullabaloo made about advertising Wisconsin, which the administration apparently feels is a good idea," he said. "Then why not take the expenses of these celebrations out of the $100,000 state advertising fund? I could vote for that," he told the assemblymen, who promptly voted against his suggestion.

During the same debate Assemblyman Charles A. Budlong of Marinette, a Republican noted for his habitual drollery, observed that the assembly's "watchdog of the treasury," Finance Chairman E. J. Hooley, was voting for the "pleasure trips." "Mr. Hooley needs a rest. I hope he's put on all of these committees," said Budlong.

"Let's not act like a bunch of sissies," asked Assemblyman Elmer Genzmer of Mayville when someone made a motion to adjourn at 8:15 one evening. The house adjourned shortly after, however, despite Genzmer's exhortation.

"Give him all the time he wants. The longer he talks, the more votes we'll get," shouted acid-tongued Tom Lomsdahl of Osseo when Assemblyman William Rohan of Kaukauna asked unanimous consent for additional time to denounce the WDA bill.

"Let him who is without sin throw the first stone," advised Charles B. Perry, oldest member of the assembly, as the house prepared to vote on a resolution censuring Assemblyman Emil Costello, Kenosha, state CIO leader, for repeated absences from sessions. The vote on the resolution showed only seven members "without sin."

One of the most effective lobbies maintained at the capitol is that of the Wisconsin County Boards association whose executive secretary and legislative counsel is A. J. Thelen, formerly of DePere.

Strength of the association's lobbying is due jointly to Mr. Thelen's ability and popularity with the legislators, and the sympathy of most senators and assemblymen with county governmental problems. Most legislators are graduates of the county board, and maintain a close acquaintance with their county governmental affairs. Consequently they understand and are prepared to fight for the bills introduced by the association.

One of the principal projects having the backing of the county boards association at present is the preparation of a future state relief program.

Those counties which entered into an agreement with the state public welfare department a year ago under which the state department would carry the bulk of their relief costs, and who are now several months in arrears in their receipts of state aid, are concerned about the future of state relief policy.

Through the county boards association they are now pushing a measure which would direct the two houses of the legislature, the welfare department and the executive office to determine a relief program.

Some counties have not received state aid for several months, and local merchants have been carrying the load. But, county representatives warned, such credit is practically exhausted, and the legislature must take action soon, either to dissolve the state aid agreement, or to appropriate funds to continue it.

Among those counties receiving aid under the plan are Door, 78 per cent, Marinette, 80 per cent, and Oconto 97 per cent.

Progressive leaders in the legislature and elsewhere are pointing to the recent election of Joseph Martin of Green Bay to the state supreme court in support of a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment to provide for a primary election in those campaigns in which there are more than two contestants for a supreme court seat.

Judge Martin, they point out, was reelected to the supreme court by a majority of the total votes cast. His opponents drew a majority of the total polled, and of course the Progressives feel that if they had had but one candidate in the race Judge Martin would have been reelected.

Judge Martin, incidentally, is proving to be one of the most sought after members of the state's highest court. He has already made many speaking engagements for the summer months, including some statewide events.

Sixth congressional district Republicans have reported to party leaders here that there is a good working organization in their territory at the present time, and that the issues facing the state and nation are being kept before the voters of that part of the state.

See Promise of Steady Rate for Steel Production

Find Market Possesses Many Elements of Strength

Facing a natural rebound from the artificially stimulated demand for steel a few weeks ago, when a rise in price was expected, and also the effect of a seasonal lull at mid-year, the steel market possesses many elements of strength that promise fairly steady production at a high rate, says Steel.

Though buying is consistently less than shipments, volume of current orders, when added to mill backlogs, is sufficient to assure activity well into the summer. No alarm is felt by steelmakers because of lessened buying, as consumers continue to ask delivery as soon as possible, indicating that stocks are low and material is going into consumption at once.

A seasonal factor in summer demand for steel is expected to be law pun ball games entirely. . . . Both chairmen of the joint finance committee are bankers. Assembly Chairman E. J. Hooley runs a bank in New Glarus, while E. Merwyn Rowlands of the senate has an interest in a family banking business in Cambria. . . . Senator Pierce Morrissey of Rush Lake has refused to listen to the pleas of Green Bay fishermen and will vote against their bill to create a bureau of fisheries when it comes to the floor, he says. Senator Mack of Shiocton is also under the gun to be opposed, although Senators John E. Cashman of Denmark and Michael F. Kresky of Green Bay will probably support it.

Prices of pig iron for third quarter are expected to be announced within the coming week. Melters apparently hold the opinion that no advance will be made as there has been no effort to obtain additional coverage. Consumption is generally clined in demand, change of automobile models, is not likely to be as strong this year as builders have heavy orders for 1937 models and will run later than usual before the change. New models are to be brought out earlier, thus shortening the period between seasons.

Threat of labor difficulties among independent producers has caused only slight efforts to obtain earlier deliveries, although in some instances this has caused acceleration of demand.

The national operating rate has rebounded 21 points to 914 per cent of capacity, equal to that of April, the highest level of the year. Pittsburgh increased its rate 13 points to 95 per cent. Chicago added one point to 85. New England 13 points to 100 and Cleveland 23 points to 82 per cent. Youngstown lost three points to 80 per cent. Buffalo two points to 88, Detroit one point to 99 and Cincinnati four points to 90. Rates were unchanged at Wheeling, 94 per cent, Eastern Pennsylvania, 73, Birmingham, 83, and St. Louis, 94.

In spite of reduced buying, authoritatively estimated at 20 to 25 per cent under the April rate, mills are making slow progress in reducing backlogs and making prompt delivery possible. Best deliveries on bars now range from four to six weeks, and on plates three to four weeks in the case of some producers. While most mills can offer eight to 10 weeks, some plate-makers are able to take business only for delivery in 14 to 20 weeks.

Think Ahead
Sheet consumers are beginning to take thought for fourth quarter supplies and some tonnage is being booked at prices prevailing at time of delivery. Prices of pig iron for third quarter are expected to be announced within the coming week. Melters apparently hold the opinion that no advance will be made as there has been no effort to obtain additional coverage. Consumption is generally at a high rate and stocks are not being accumulated. Tin plate continues to lead in production, some mills operating at better than 100 per cent of rated capacity. A Pittsburgh producer which lost some time because of strike interruption is straining every faculty to catch up on the lost production that resulted.

Numerous pipe line projects are under consideration, promising additional large tonnage of plates. Those being actively considered by Chicago mills involve a total of 10,000 to 15,000 tons of plates. Placing of three ocean steamships with Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corp., brings 15,000 tons of hull steel to the parent mill.

Because of continuance of labor difficulties in the Detroit area automobile production last week fell off from the peak of the two preceding weeks. Total last week was 134,500, compared with the revised figure of 140,396 the previous week. General Motors produced 54,250, Ford 35,835 and Chrysler 28,000.

Scrap continues to decline, but more slowly, and indications lead to belief the bottom may be near. Inasmuch as prices may have been pressed higher than conditions justified a few weeks ago the drop may be below a reasonable level. With lower range of price the incentive to bring out accumulations from remote locations will be less. Renewal of consumer buying is relied on to rectify the situation before long.

The composite of scrap prices fell 73 cents to $17.87, the level of the second week in January, practically the low for the year. The iron and steel composite declined 2 cents to $39.97 on lower scrap prices. The finished steel composite is unchanged at $61.70.

THE FIRST AMERICAN AUGUSTUS

As surely as Washington took Cornwallis at Yorktown Mr. Roosevelt has taken the supreme court.

First a subservient congress gave him carte blanche. Now a supreme court, seemingly made timid by his bludgeoning, threats and coercion, has stepped out of his way.

Mr. Roosevelt reigns supreme. The constitution is what he says it is. Since he changes his mind pretty often it may come to resemble the Mexican jumping bean before long.

In particular we refer to the decision of the court upholding the Unemployment Insurance plan of the federal government. In so many words that government, through that plan, has wiped out state governments or reduced them to vassalage.

The basis of the federal unemployment insurance plan is a mixture of blackmail and extortion and the gun it carried was not in its pocket but right out in the open.

In so many words it said to Wisconsin, for instance: Call your legislature together to pass this law that we have written for you and if you don't pass it according to our approval we will strip your people of their wealth and turn the money over to Mississippi or Alabama or any other good and loyal territory.

Very well. The supreme court has failed us. It is on the dictator's band wagon.

Since that is clear why mince words over it.

Furthermore there is no such thing in this country as a state excepting in an imaginary condition. Neither are there state rights.

There is a chief executive. His attitude and state of mind may be best understood if one considers that only a week ago he vetoed an appropriation for five million dollars make by congress to sustain the New York World's Fair. The ungrateful wretches who drew that measure provided that the expenditure was to be made with the approval of a certain commission and dared to put on that commission, with some members of the cabinet, a majority of congressmen. The President says this is unconstitutional because it "amounts to an unconstitutional invasion of the province of the executive."

Since the constitution is now what the executive says it is, and since he says that his is the only authority to disburse funds and to build up a political machine, of course the bill was unconstitutional.

It is outrageous for anyone in this country to have any authority excepting Mr. Roosevelt. Nothing he does is ever unconstitutional, however much he may proceed by shambling indirection and broken words.

The supreme court in upholding the President's unemployment insurance bill has swallowed language itself has recently written, as well as principles of constitutional construction enunciated by every decent man who has sat on the bench for a hundred years.

How kindly of Puck to call mortals only fools!

Pull the shades! Hide the shame!

THE ROCKEFELLER WEALTH AND AMERICAN DEMOCRACY

If Mr. Rockefeller had retained all the wealth he created or acquired during his long and highly successful business career he would have become the first and only American billionaire.

There will be a discrepancy in figures concerning the Rockefeller wealth as well as his gifts. This discrepancy arises because so much was set aside for various public purposes during periods of financial distress or depression and since the amounts so presented were many times largely composed of stocks, bonds and such like securities upon which the market values did not fairly represent true values, the figures given to the public were generally materially less than the facts.

But based upon magazine articles published within the last two years with the approval of the Rockefeller family it will be learned that approximately 80 per cent of this man's wealth was given by him to the people, to educational, religious, medical, charitable and kindred organizations working intently for the betterment of the American masses.

Of the balance retained by Mr. Rockefeller the government will take 60 per cent in inheritance taxes.

Thus he has voluntarily, and through inheritance taxes, devoted about 92 per cent of his wealth to the people and their government and but 8 per cent remains in his estate.

At the outset it is worthwhile to pause and reflect upon the conditions in a nation that actuate a man to voluntarily give 80 per cent of his fortune to the people knowing that 60 per cent of the balance will be taken over by the government. And it will be equally valuable to add to that reflection the fact that although conspicuous by their size the Rockefeller gifts are quite in keeping with an American custom since such gifts average from 2 to 4 billion dollars a year in this country.

It is then pertinent to seek the reason for a generosity, the like of which is not to be found elsewhere in the world.

There are two major causes for this happy condition although each is related to the other. They are democracy and its laws.

Mr. Rockefeller is a product of our democracy. So are all our other wealthy people. Democracy of our sort has much more devoted adherents than all other forms of government put together. Men may complain about it, kick it, damn it, and curse it, but through the still night they know that such democracy is justice, fairness, honesty, and equality of treatment, in more exact measure than any calipers or other instruments ever devised have been able to ascertain the rewards and merits of human beings.

And democracy breeds fellowship. It keeps men in every walk of life touching elbows, "feet under the same table," cheering at the same football games, with the prizes ordinarily going to the ones who seemingly merit them whether born in a Kansas dugout or a Gold Coast brown stone front.

Laws made under our constitution do not permit what is called "landed estates," the tying up of vast fortunes through the generations, the creation of "castles in Spain" but seek, nevertheless, to give the man who has acquired property a reasonable right to protect the loved ones who are the immediate objects of his bounty.

Thus in our own state the acquirer of wealth may tie that property up so long as two persons whom he may name, and who are living at the time, shall live, to which is added the privilege of another 30 years so as to protect invalids and the immature.

We know this principle was expounded first by certain forefathers of ours of whom it has become popular to refer as the fellows who lived "in the horse and buggy days," but their deep-seated convictions, which are almost wholly responsible for the nation we have today, were gained by experience, observation and deep reflection.

The merit of those principles and of the democracy that supports them is so evident that everyone who comes to consider and analyze them dispassionately becomes deeply convinced of their justice and righteousness, and in his turn, becomes another fervent supporter of the principles and the system that could make all of this splendid creation possible and yet save the people from most of the otherwise dangerous and vicious results of wealth.

In Mr. Rockefeller's life because it extended almost a century we had evidence that no intelligent person could ever spurn. He was given under our form of government the fullest sort of a life. His rare and splendid abilities of organization were never hampered by a tyrant. But at the conclusion of his life we find that already 92 per cent of his created wealth is in the hands of the people or at work for them.

Opinions Of Others

STRIKE COSTS

With motor industry strikers in Michigan back at work, and all efforts being directed to fill orders accumulated during the shut-downs, experts have attempted to estimate the cost of the strikes. They have considered only the four major automobile strikes and have reckoned only with tangible factors. Their estimate is that the state is out about $477,000,000, of which $45,750,000 is in wages. Taking into consideration the forced suspension of operations in factories providing parts and supplying materials to the motor industry, they increased the estimate to about $617,000,000.

These estimates are difficult to make with confidence, for as a rule they weigh only effects traceable directly to the forced suspension of manufacturing. If the effects are traced out, as they should be, to include the loss in all business supplying food, clothing and other necessities to the employees, and to sales organizations in all parts of the country, the loss of business is indeed enormous. The velocity as well as the volume of general business was greatly reduced. The strikes were direct inspiration of similar strikes in other industries. It is probable that an estimate of $1,000,000,000 would not be far from right if all losses were traced.

Some of this business will be picked up. Overtime work and wage increases will recover some of the lost pay, increased prices passed on to the consumer will compensate for other losses. But enough net loss remains to convince people that, regardless of the merit of strikes and lockout claims, some way should be found to insure continuity of operations during collective bargaining negotiations. Now that the right of setting up the machinery for collective bargaining in most great industries is recognized by federal law, progress toward agreement by arbitration should be more rapid.—Indianapolis News.

A bill introduced recently in the French Chamber of Deputies demanded that all foreigners under 30 years of age be expelled or put in concentration camps 48 hours after mobilization orders.

THE DEATH of John D. Rockefeller is obviously far more productive of comment than of general grief because, after all, it is the privilege of few men to do as much as did John D. or live as full a life... whether you like what he accomplished in his active business career before and after the turn of the century is beside the point... the fact remains that he was a genius in his particular field... and up and down the street you hear it repeated: "I looked, but he didn't name me in his will!"

THE FEMININE MIND STILL AT WORK
The more a man does for his wife, the more she expects him to do.

When things go wrong, the wife blames it to back luck but the husband blames it on his wife.

There is just as much difference between being big-headed and long-headed as there is between being flat-headed and level-headed.

The only way to manage a man is to let him think he is having his own way when he isn't.

A girl never thinks a man's heart is in the right place unless she has it in her possession.

It takes a woman to speak volumes with her eyes when she isn't saying a word.

Some idiot claims that the "Tongue of Liberty" belongs to a woman.

This is the thought I bring.
Praise for a royal lady.
Mother of Britain's king.

"In the Spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of" mush; and a woman wonders whether to turn in last years husband on one of the snappy new models or just keep him for a spare.

Many a gay young dog in snappy flannels is just an ill-bred pup. Matches are made in Heaven, so a lot of angels like to play with fire.

If you want to know how to get hold of a good secretary, ask the secretary; the office is probably fireproof, anyway.

If all the New Dealers were laid end to end, the line would not reach my sympathies.

And a beautiful tree was cut down to make the paper I wrote this on.

The presidential problem of what to do with Uncle Joe Robinson brings back, very forcibly, the question I have asked before: "What is a Democrat?"

A SONG OF HOPE

Awakened when the first faint morning light
Is breaking through the shadows of the night,
I hear a bird sing happy songs of praise,

Who knows within this day what happenings
May change the course of Fate and bring to me
My own glad hour of hopeful ecstasy!

THE REJUVENATION REGIMEN

Rejuvenation means regeneration, return of cells or tissues which have degenerated or grown old prematurely to their original healthy vigorous vitality. Or in short it is restoration of life.

Until the next edition of Webster appears, life means better-than-average nutritional condition as manifested in lower death-rates, better growth and development, extension of the prime of life in both directions, material improvement of the life expectation of adults, higher average level of positive health throughout the life cycle, greater pep, more vitality, joie de vivre, the highest degree of natural immunity, an adequate fund of reserve power to tide over emergencies and strains, the resiliency of the untamed animal or the unconquered savage. Two readers—Mrs. Flora Lavenport of Vestaburg, Michigan, and Mrs. Edith A. Murdock of Millington, collaborated with me in coining this word vite, but we have no need to guide those who contribute it to the general circulation.

The rejuvenation diet is not a rigid one for a particular condition—only the physician who knows the individual's condition can prescribe such a diet—but rather purports to be a standard or formula to guide those who from faulty nutrition, begin to grow infirm and aged at thirty or forty.

Diet and Youth
Here is the skeleton plan or outline for the corrective protective, regeneration diet. The items being chosen as most essential for normal nutrition, providing plenty of calcium and phosphorus and other mineral elements usually lacking in the diet of urban dwellers, leaving an alkaline ash which tends to prevent acidosis, also containing a maximum of such vitamins as are obtainable in food. As outlined the diet is a moderate reduction regimen for most adults, especially for those who are at all overweight and of sedentary habit.

Your Birthday

"GEMINI"

If May 26 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m. and from 8:30 to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:30 to 10:30 a. m., from 6:30 to 8:30 p. m. and from 10:30 p. m. until midnight.

You can make good use of your personality this day, if you will only realize the importance of doing so. Ill temper, surliness and cynicism, will be trouble makers this day, so only the very foolish will indulge in them. Keep at arm's length anyone who seems to be disposed to be captious. Do not permit a sense of dejection to make you miserable. No matter how great the effort may be required to cast it off, do so, for ninety chances out of a hundred the cause of it will be removed or corrected. Something in the way of a revelation may make you very happy. Things probably will unfold, convincing you that life, after all, is really worth living. Social invitations should not be declined this day, unless for some very definite reason. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who have found their ideal for a mate, must be careful that in trying to be funny they do not become tactlessly discourteous.

If a woman and May 26 is your birthday, you may chafe under any restraint placed on your actions or freedom. Consider existing conditions and face fairly any exigencies, which might be responsible for them. In any business matter do not be afraid to make a decision, for people, unable to make up their minds this day, are liable to lose some excellent opportunities. An overdose of self-righteousness may bring about very unpleasant situations. It may behoove you to establish a reputation for always being punctual. Someone you may meet casually may be responsible for much good fortune coming into your life. Work of an artistic, musical, literary or commercial nature should enable you to find a way to financial independence. Although marriage is a lottery to those born on this date, they usually are fortunate in their selection of a mate.

Children born on this date are in danger of being spoiled by their parents during adolescence. Exceptionally attractive and mentally bright, as a rule, they have a way of getting whatever they want. They ought to have bright future socially, professionally or commercially.

If a man and May 26 is your natal day, you probably have a great amount of foresight. You perhaps have impulses that prevent your making many serious mistakes. Possibly as an artist, scientist, engineer, writer, actor, doctor, lawyer or broker you will have little difficulty in making a great success. Successful People Born on May 26:

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—Vignettes:
A serious-faced tourist, watching the big boats dock, saying, "I've always been fascinated by ships... I used to own a canoe." Hugo Mariani, sad-faced (for no reason) entertainer, gazing moodily at the jumbled neon signs in 7th avenue.

The orange juice stand at the corner where Lilly Langtry used to live... The hushed excitement in a midtown cafe as Loretta Young, looking beautiful in soft blue, wends her way to a reserved table.

The ex-jockey who now is a shoeshine boy (he's 42 years old) although he owns an apartment building in Brooklyn... The second arch of Brooklyn Bridge which bolts out the site of an old house where a famous murder took place (Rose street) a hundred years ago.

Nancy Garner, the singing niece of the Vice President, hurrying out of a cab in the Murray Hill sector... Leona Lee, the veil dancer, saying she doesn't like chow mein ("It isn't good for my figure").

The high, lofty dignity of Grand Central at dusk, with organ music filling the vast, arched interior... The girl who plays a Russian peasant in a nightclub... who really used to be a peasant in Russia.

But she left there, disillusioned, and never went back... The reason: one night she came in from the fields to her home and found that the Cossacks had burned down the house and killed her mother and father.

Gypsy Gabrielle's smile... Katharine Locke, the season's only starlet, who lives in the Bronx but owns a farm in New Jersey.

In the fall, when the wild ducks fly south, they nearly so madly watching their wilderness kin winging high and far.

The sense of genuine friendliness that comes from a chat with Basil Rathbone... Peter Freuchen and his wild red beard... He's the Danish explorer who cut off his own toes, because they were frozen during an Arctic adventure.

Sasha, the tiger man, in correct evening clothes, at the Explorer's Club... He's the Russian who hunts tigers with spears and bows and arrows.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—The public in general found no reason for Senator Borah cutting loose on fascism the other day but when suddenly he vented his rage against the air-bombing of the Basque city of Guernica, those harsh words were sweet to the ears of 2,000 constituents.

These constituents are Basques, living in and around Boise, the senator's home city, and they form the largest Basque colony outside of Europe.

It would be silly to say the senator spoke out only because he wanted those 2,000 votes. In the first place he doesn't need them since he was re-elected last year in the face of the Roosevelt landslide by a majority so large that 2,000 votes mean little. That Basque colony is highly cherished in Idaho and he truly said they live with vigor, save earnestly and spend wisely.

Hardened Lot

The Basques and Borah moved in on Idaho at about the same time so have sort of grown up together, although Borah took to politics and the Basques to sheep raising.

Much of Spain is high and barren and living is tough but these Spanish Basques were hardened to the desert ways. It is true their careful living crowded some natives out of the sheep business, but it also must be recorded that few of them are found on railroad section gangs and still fewer on relief.

They go in for fine homes in the Spanish style and are clannish to a fair degree, but natives who can fathom their way of life share liberally in their business. They dance so hard their men are soured in sweat and their games are equally hardy, which may explain some of the troubles of Franco's columns around Bilbao.

Good Drinkers

Their drinking is also on the sterner side and two Driscoll brothers of Boise, lawyer and banker, have enjoyed the good will of the Basques partly because neither has been "put under the table" at the autumn fiesta, which the herders come in from the range.

Because Dean Driscoll, the lawyer, is plump and cocky they center their attentions on him and make him drink glass for glass with them of straight whisky. By slyly eating bread along with the whisky (some of the Basques keep him supplied as part of the fun), he has always managed to rise from the table under his own power while the Basques taking their whisky neat, have gone down fighting.

Seek 'Echoes' to Make Airplane Propellers Safe

Rare Occupation Is That Of Tester in This Field

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

Dayton, Ohio—(AP)—"This," said the Wright field aviation officer, surveying the littered state of the concrete, cell-chopped room, "is far from being the healthiest of occupations."

"This" referred to the rare occupation of aircraft propeller testing. And to the fact that the litter of the moment was chunks of concrete, of man-killing size, which had been knocked out of a bulging hole in one of the 10-inch, steel-reinforced walls.

The thing that hit the wall was a broken propeller blade. But the cause of it was a queer kind of "echo," a sound which, along an engine crankshaft and propeller building up what engineers call resonance.

Echo Finders

Discovering this echo and how to get rid of it has given Americans the safest propellers of any nation in the world and has caused the Material division of the U. S. Army Air Corps to build here the most complete propeller testing laboratory in the world.

The blade that broke was on an engine running at full speed on a testing block outside the smashed wall. The engine and propeller were getting acquainted. Both vibrated. Vibrations of both may be quite safe—when separate. These two did not match. Their combined vibrations built up the fatal echo.

One blade snapped at the hub. It tore the engine loose and tossed it onto space as smoothly as a giant shot putter. This kind of break always tears the engine out of a plane. It never gives warning. It is fatal in flight.

Grueling Pace

Duplication of this kind of failure in service is forestalled by the laboratory. There are vibration analyzers and three towers, each two stories high. On the towers like windmills, propellers are mounted. They are the "whirl rigs." The whirling is done with 20,000 horsepower electricity.

The vibration analyzers discover the destructive frequencies of the "echo" in the propellers. The props remove these frequencies from the operating range.

On the whirl rigs, the propellers are given a 20-hour endurance run at double the rated horsepower of the aircraft engine for which they are designed.

Then the propellers are given a 100 hours endurance run on the actual engine, at 100 per cent rated horsepower. After that, they take 10 hours endurance on the actual engine at the "flash" power approved for takeoff.

Lumberjack Strike in Michigan Is Spreading

Manizing, Mich.—(P)—Spreading strikes of lumberjacks and other north woods workers affected this area today with the walkout of about 250 employees of three Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company camps. Leaders of the Sawmill and Lumber Workers' union, pushing demands for 55 cents an hour wages, a 40-hour week, and single beds and shower baths in camps, seek to establish the union as a collective bargaining agency. John N. Bush of Negaunee, head of the Cleveland-Cliffs Land department, said the walkout was "unfair" since the union had failed to confer previously with the company over the demands. Bush arrived here last night. Jack Letts of Marquette, Gogebic county, told a mass meeting of Alger county strikers last night that all camps in the county would be closed within 24 hours. He said 200 more workers would strike.

At the conclusion of the testimony by Nancy Lee Faulkner, widow of the murdered man, the defendant, Karen Andre, launches a verbal attack on the young widow and challenges her testimony while the judge pounds for order and Miss Andre's attorney, Mr. Stevens tries to restrain her.

Courtroom Atmosphere Will be Created for Little Theater Play

PHOTOGRAPHERS' bulbs will flash, news reporters will scribble furiously and dash out to "make a deadline," and court attendants will intone their solemn "Hear ye, Hear ye" and "Do you solemnly swear" to create the proper courtroom atmosphere when the Little Theater of the Fox River Valley presents "Night of January 16" at 8:15 Thursday and Friday nights at Outagamie county court house.

The cast of characters has been drilled thoroughly in proper courtroom etiquette and procedure, under the technical supervision of a gentleman of the law, and the production will be staged with those rules in mind, insofar as they do not interfere with dramatic requirements.

A new transatlantic airport is being constructed at Foxes Irish Free State.

All witnesses will be sworn in the usual manner, material evidence will be submitted and marked Exhibit A, B, etc., and the bailiff will conduct the jury into the jury room between acts as well as at the conclusion of the testimony when it will retire to deliberate on a verdict.

The cast is one of the largest ever to appear in a Little Theater production, there being about 18 speaking parts and 10 non-speaking characters. The story moves rapidly as the testimony of the various witnesses is taken, and there are a number of highly emotional scenes which keep the interest at fever pitch.

The character of Bjorn Faulkner, the murdered man, is based on that of Ivar Krueger, Swedish match king, whose death some years ago was followed by rumors that the financial wizard had faked a suicide and disappeared with a tidy fortune. In the "Night of January 16," testimony brings out the fact that Faulkner, like Krueger, had built his huge fortune on fraud, and that when his financial situation became critical, it affected the entire financial structure of the world.

Although the play is being given for members of the Little Theater Thursday and Friday evenings, non-members who are interested in seeing the play may be accommodated by calling Russell Spoor, president, or Frank Wilson, treasurer.

NOBODY ENJOYS TAKING MEDICINE!

Yet most people at some time suffer from common constipation. Why not correct this condition the natural way—by including a ready-to-eat cereal with your daily meals instead of taking weakening pills and drugs?

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN adds the "bulk" the average system needs. In the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, forming a soft, spongelike mass—which gently cleanses the intestines.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B to tone up the intestines and iron for the blood. Just eat two tablespoonfuls a day, as a cereal with milk or cream, or cooked into appetizing muffins, breads, etc. Three times daily in severe cases.

ALL-BRAN is sold at all grocers. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Strikers Demonstrate Before Milwaukee Plant

Milwaukee—(P)—Striking employees of the Robert A. Johnson company staged a demonstration last night in front of the plant, leaving 25 small broken panes of glass behind them when they left. The demonstration followed a meeting of union employees, called to consider a proposal worked out during the day. A union spokesman said it was rejected because it carried no provision for a closed shop. Joseph Alberli, business agent for the union, said a wage increase of 41 cents an hour was included in the proposal.

Deputies said about 300 took part in the singing and shouting which was punctuated at intervals by the sound of breaking glass. Deputy sheriffs and police from West Milwaukee made no arrests, saying they were unable to locate those throwing the stones. After about 30 minutes, the employees sped away in private cars and taxicabs.

Understanding Is Needed Between Mother, Daughter

BY ANGELO PATRI

"She is cranky, never wants to be told how to do anything, and she doesn't know how to do what other girls her age do without thinking about it. Lately she has turned against me and won't even speak to me. I'm sure I don't know what to do with a daughter like that. I only want to do good to her. It's not for me that I want things done right. It's for her."

That was what mother said about Louise who was in open rebellion against her mother.

"I just can't stand it. She seems to think that I'm still three years old, and I'm sixteen. I want to go out with some of the girls and boys, just to the house three doors down street. To people we have known all our lives. Mother starts, 'Who's going? Who else? Sure there isn't anybody else? Well, I wish you'd stay home then I'd know where you were.' That's the beginning."

"What dress are you going to wear? It needs pressing. I knew it needed pressing and I had out the ironing board and the iron. Mother snatches away the iron. Then she takes the board and sets it up, saying, 'So. Now why didn't you put it there first place? Give me the iron. I'll connect it. You might slip. Where is that dress? If it's to be done decently I'd better do it!'"

"By that time I'm bursting with rage. I could attend to all that myself and with no bother at all. It's the same with everything. I don't know anything; I can't do anything; I'm just a helpless fool in my mother's eyes. Everybody else seems to think I'm at least normal."

This is the adolescent battle. Mother is anxious about many things that the girl knows nothing about and can know nothing about until time and experience teach her. The girl wants to try out her world, try herself in various situations, experiment a bit with life. Even the little that an iron and an ironing board allow is welcome. Mother dresses experiments. She has seen some dreadful ends to experiments, and she fears that her daughter might be caught in one. Affection is not lacking on either side, but understanding is absent—completely.

Adolescent girls, and boys as well, feel themselves grown up in many ways, and they are. But along with their maturity is that part of themselves that is still childlike. It is clear that, being part adult and part child, there cannot be an even progress through life. Experience and strength and full development are on mother's side, weakness, wavering, indecision, uncertainty, ignorance, are strong on the daughter's side. Only an eager will to do and to dare is powerful in the adolescent girl and drives her to want to go alone and experiment without advice or check. Somehow into two well-greased loaf pans. Let rise 15 minutes and bake 50 minutes in a moderately slow oven.

Affection will do that better than any other force. If a mother has trained her daughter to know her as an affectionate and understanding friend there will be no division, and no rebellion at this stage. If that association and understanding is lacking, then it must be provided at the instant. There must be affection on both sides. Especially must there be faith and trust and hope on the mother's part. Faith is the salvation of the adolescent-parental relationship.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and who are in development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing three cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Seniors to Trace School History in Graduating Talks

93 to Receive Diplomas From Kaukauna High School

Kaukauna—Speakers for commencement night, June 11, at Kaukauna High school will be a group of 18 or 20 graduating seniors, each one taking an era in the development of the public school system for a subject. Superintendent James F. Cavanaugh announced yesterday.

The occasion will be the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the first public schools by Horace Mann. Besides reviewing Mann's pioneering in the field of lower education and tracing the history of the first schools founded in the east, some of the speeches will center around early education measures in the state of Wisconsin.

The salutatorian, Helen Hopfensperger, will introduce the subject in her opening talk and the valedictorian, Irma Lambie, will close the oral symposium with a summation. These two speakers will be given longer in which to talk, but it is planned to limit the others to three or four minutes. Cavanaugh said.

Aubrey Smith, Conway Tearle, and Andy Devine. This ageless romance of two vibrant young lovers, separated by the feud of their families, for whom no sacrifice was too great that they might be together, has been lavishly filmed, after two years of research, with 1,250 costumes (a new record for lavish staging) and fifty three authentic settings. A second short feature, "Killers of the Sea," offers contrasting, and interesting experiences of Capt. Frank Case, well, under water in the Gulf of Mexico, and his hand to hand battles with sharks, and sawfish. This program will be at the Appleton Theater on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

60 Workers Open Salvation Army Drive for Funds

Campaign in Appleton Will Continue Through Friday

About 60 workers opened the annual Salvation Army drive for funds with a dinner meeting last night at the Y. M. C. A. The campaign will continue through Friday and report meetings will be held each evening during the drive.

Brigadier William H. Fox, district commander, attended the meeting and spoke on work and aims of the organization.

Calling attention to the "less-thanness" of the age, horseless carriages, seedless oranges, noiseless motor cars and painless dentists, he said there are some things that do not change in their principles. The Salvation Army, born 72 years ago, had still had a purpose, he said.

Explains Purpose
"It has a regenerating message to the unregenerate," he said. "A message of hope to the hopeless, way-farers, fallen girls and stranded derelicts. The message of its founder still echoes through the ranks. It has a message of faith to the faithless."

Republicans Seeking Youth and Money In Preparation for Elections in 1938

New York.—Youth, money and some "constitutional" Democrats—those are three things sought by many Republican leaders over the nation to bring the party back to fighting power after the walloping last November. So a state-by-state survey showed today.

From John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the national committee, on down to precinct captains, party workers are vigorously busy in virtually every state.

They are starting right at the grass roots, hoping their efforts will yield green fields lush with votes for the bi-elections before the important congressional voting of 1938.

Some Republican executives seemed to think there would have to be party reconstruction. Others asserted the November defeat did not signalize any fundamental defect.

Said John E. Jackson, committee-man for Louisiana: "We feel that President Roosevelt was reelected primarily because the American people desire a president to serve for two terms, unless something extraordinary intervenes."

To queries about reconstruction and rehabilitation, leaders in Maine and Vermont (remember?) they pointed out gently that those states went Republican last November.

Arthur Curtis, committee-man for Missouri said efforts there are directed to "build up party morale, shake off the feeling of despair and increase courage and hope."

Efforts to cultivate young voters and bring more youthful leadership into party councils are being made in several states. Illinois is one. There, young Republicans have voted new officials, and have abolished control by the state central committee. They said the leadership had been "cloistered."

Activity in Massachusetts is aimed chiefly at Organization by communities and counties, emphasizing work of the Young Republican clubs. Young Republicans are also active in New York.

Concerning the state of Washington, George Flood of Seattle, a county chairman, said: "Republican leaders are putting their heads together to select a new and younger type of leadership."

In Delaware, leaders said efforts are being made to interest young men in the affairs of the party. To pay off the party deficit, state organizations have embarked on fund campaigns. Some of the state war chests are pretty bare, others are not.

Permanent 'Bargain Rates' Being Sought
Madison.—(P)—Five private utilities asked the public service commission today for authority to schedule permanent "bargain rate" rates in effect nearly two years.

The bargain rate applied only to residential customers who increased their use of electricity. Under the new plan all residential customers would be billed on this rate, effecting a saving of $370,000 a year for approximately 130,000 customers.

The companies involved, the number of customers affected, and the estimated annual savings are: Wisconsin Power and Light company, 55,000 customers, $180,000; Wisconsin Public Service corporation and the Menominee and Marinette Light and Traction company, 35,000 customers; $88,000; Northern States Power company, 30,000 customers, $100,000; and Lake Superior District Power company, 10,000 customers, $22,000.

The companies asked permission to put the new rate schedule in effect July 1. Officials estimated less than 25 per cent of all residential customers now benefit from the bargain rate.

Three schedules, based on the size of the community served, will be adopted if the commission approves.

Accusers Fail to Appear at Hearing Of City Treasurer

Clintonville Mayor's Wife Drops Charges Against Dr. Robert Fischer

Clintonville.—A complaint charging Dr. Robert Fischer, city treasurer, with misconduct in office, signed by Edith Washburn, wife of Mayor A. A. Washburn, was withdrawn yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Washburn, a few hours before a hearing scheduled by the common council was to have been held.

The complaint was dropped when Dr. Fischer demanded that the hearing be held as scheduled after the city clerk notified the aldermen upon instruction of the mayor that the hearing was to be postponed for 30 days.

Although the complaint was withdrawn, Dr. Fischer appeared at the council chambers at 7 o'clock last night, the time set for the hearing. Four aldermen, John Tanty, George Berndt, Henry Borchardt and Henry Schellien, also appeared at the council chambers but the accusers failed to appear. More than 100 persons gathered at the meeting place and some remained two hours.

The complaint against the city treasurer, filed April 7, charged him with official misconduct and malfeasance. It stated that he had failed to make and file at the first meeting of the council a verified account of money received and disbursed and the condition of the treasury as required by law.

Loaning of city money to private persons and corporations on I. O. U.'s also was charged in the complaint.

Supporters of Dr. Fischer asserted he had handled $1,500,000 of city funds in the last 25 years he has been in office and an audit by the state tax commission last July showed an error of only $19 in the city's books.

Lindbergh Silent About His New Son

London.—(P)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh established a protective veil of silence today about his wife and their new born son whose birth on the night of May 12 was disclosed only yesterday by the famous flier to American embassy officials.

After his disclosure, Lindbergh retreated into hiding from even his closest friends who wished to extend congratulations.

The only diffident information in England was that cabled from the United States of the announcement made by an aunt of Mrs. Lindbergh in Cleveland, Ohio.

Miss Anne S. Cutter, the aunt, said Mrs. Dwyer Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's mother who is with her in England, had sent a letter that "only stated a son had been born" on the night of King George VI's coronation.

Friends here recalled that Lindbergh had declined an invitation to attend the historic coronation ceremony in Westminster abbey.

"First Water" diamond
You've heard it often—a diamond of the first water. Would you like to know what it means? The expression is used because when a perfect diamond is submerged in water, it is invisible. A second-water stone has some slight imperfection—flawless, but ringed with color, or colorless with some slight flaw. Some people prefer a stone with color. The important thing is, of course, to know that the stone you buy is what it is said to be. Come in and look over our selection of diamonds and other gems. Menasha—With enthusiasm at high pitch, teams participating in the Boy Scout drive on Thursday are organized and the only meeting before the start of the actual drive is that which is to be held at the Hotel Menasha at 5:15 on Wednesday afternoon.

The purpose of this meeting is to make final organization plans and to redistribute some of the prospect cards which may have been turned in by the various team captains for other groups to follow.

The usual feature of the Boy Scout drive, the "early bird breakfast," will be held at Hotel Menasha from 7 to 7:30 Thursday morning. Prominent officers of the Valley Council are expected to be present.

Voluntary contributions are beginning to come in even in the state of the campaign, which indicates that the slogan, "A thousand friends for the Boy Scouts in Menasha," is going to be realized without a great deal of difficulty, especially if the present enthusiasm holds over for the one-day campaign.

Yacht Club Plans Activities for Coming Summer

Five Classes of Boats to Take Part in Weekly Races

Neenah—Plans for the summer sailing and social season of the Neenah Nodaway Yacht club were outlined by committee chairman when members met for the first time in the new club house last evening.

The old Brookway mansion at 510 E. Wisconsin avenue has been renovated and the groups now boasts one of the finest club houses in the state. The spacious home is doubly purposeful because of its proximity to a natural harbor in the Fox river where over 50 sailboats will be anchored this year.

Five classes of boats, class A, National, new Cubs, old Cubs and monorals will participate in the weekly races this season. There are five class A boats; about 16 Nationals, which are said to be the sportiest boats on the water because of their high mast and large jib; 10 new Cubs and about 11 old ones; eight in the monorals or miscellaneous class.

Members to Race
Only members of the club will be permitted to race, according to D. C. Beaulieu, chairman of the racing committee. Class A boats will follow a 4-mile triangular route and the other classes will compete on a 3-mile triangular course on Lake Winnebago. Races will begin at 2 o'clock every Saturday and Sunday afternoon beginning Saturday, May 29. The events scheduled this weekend will not count towards trophies and no points will be given.

The racing season will be divided in two series and will conclude Labor day. Mr. Beaulieu, presented racing rules and requirements and said L. Y. A. rules would be followed.

James Kimberly, chairman of the house committee, said anchorage buoys had been placed in the harbor and would be rented for $1. House rules were outlined and James Kimberly, caretaker, introduced. Three dances are planned and members are invited to make the clubhouse a center of activities.

Oldest Club
The club, organized in 1889, is one of the oldest in the state and Mr. Kimberly said a bid may be made for the Inland Lakes Yachting association regatta in 1938. Swimming will be developed with the recent acquisition of a raft and two rowboats have been provided for the club members.

S. F. Shattuck's "Little Audrey" will be used as a judge's boat. Rudy Lotz presented a budget report and said membership fees had been set at $5 for men or women over 21 years of age and $2 for juniors. Mrs. James Kimberly announced a tea-bridge to be held Friday afternoon with proceeds to be used for new furniture, dishes and drapes. William Kelleit, commodore, presided at the meeting.

Twin Cities Ready for Annual Sale of Poppies

Neenah—Mayor Edwin Kalfahs today proclaimed Saturday, May 29, at Poppy Day and urged all citizens to cooperate with the American Legion auxiliary by purchasing one of the memorial flowers. Mrs. Ray Vanderwalker and Mrs. John Aylward are co-chairmen of the poppy day activities in Neenah. The proclamation follows:

"The city of Neenah responded with highest patriotism to our nation's call for defenders in 1917 and 1918, sending many of its young men into the fighting forces. Of these men, more than 20 sacrificed their lives in the nation's service, dying with more than 100,000 other Americans to bring victorious peace."

"It is fitting that the service and sacrifice of these gallant young men should be commemorated annually by appropriate public observance. As the poppy which grew on the battlefield where so many of them fell has become their memorial flower, there could be no more appropriate observance than a general wearing of the poppy in their honor."

"Therefore, I do hereby proclaim Saturday, May 29, as Poppy Day in the city of Neenah and urge all citizens to show remembrance and honor for the men of the city and nation who gave their lives in World War service, by wearing a poppy on this day."

"Edwin Kalfahs, Mayor."

Real Geniuses Crowded From Pages of History, Speaker Tells Teachers

Neenah—Declaring that boys and girls are taught dates and names of battles and generals who did nothing but get mixed up in wars while the real geniuses are crowded out of history, R. B. Thiel, professor of education, Lawrence college, Appleton, told members of the Neenah Teachers association at the annual banquet of the Valley Inn last night that Horace Mann whose "clients" were the next generation "belonged in the forefront of American history."

That man who challenged graduates in a famous baccalaureate address to "be ashamed to die unless you have done some service for humanity" was one of the greatest proponents of modern educational philosophy though he lived 100 years ago, declared Prof. Thiel. Tracing the life history of the great educator from the day when he was born into a Puritan community whose people raised poor crops agriculturally but never had a failure with their crop of boys and girls, Prof. Thiel told of Mann's early revolt against the sadistic beliefs of the Puritan preachers.

Keen Intellect
Mann had a keen intellect that won him great distinction during his collegiate days at Brown college, now known as Brown university and his valedictory address on "the gradual advance of the human species in dignity and happiness" was indicative of his early belief in the evolutionary philosophy. Horace Mann studied law, was later called back to Brown as a teacher of the classics and then entered politics. Prof. Thiel traced Mann's political career and his interest in educational advancement. When he became secretary of a newly created state board of education in 1836, Horace Mann started on his career as a champion of modern educational philosophy. The organization was there but the measure had no money, no salaries, no clerk and no expenses although yearly reports were to be presented by the board. In this Mann saw a lever to use effectively in securing necessary legislation in the interests of education, said the speaker.

His Platform
The plans of his platform included educational democracy, expansion of the scope and range of educational programs to include the blind, the deaf, the crippled, firmer organization, systems of school revenue and modern study methods and curriculum. He made educational surveys and published his reports, making few recommendations in the first reports but demanding more and more until he finally stated clearly his belief that the wealth of the state must support the education of the state's youth.

Prof. Thiel discussed Mann's study of European schools and his later career as president of Antioch college. In conclusion he quoted modern educational ideas from early reports of Horace Mann.

Karel Richmond, Appleton, sang three vocal selections prior to the talk. He was accompanied at the piano by Francis Proctor.

Roosevelt Junior High School Wins Track Honors

Ninth, Eighth Graders Cop at Annual Tourney

Seventh Grade Title to Wilson; Set Record in 9th Grade Shot

ROOSEVELT Junior High school won the junior high track title Monday afternoon when it defeated Wilson school in two of three divisions and in total points. The meet was held at Wilson school track.

In ninth grade competition Roosevelt copped by a 63 to 27 count and in eighth grade competition won by a 501 to 304 score. Wilson seventh graders kept their school from a shutout when they scored 33 points to beat Roosevelt's 30.

Only one new record was set during the afternoon. Don Heinritz, husky ninth grader from Roosevelt, tossed the 8-pound shot 50 feet, 9 1/2 inches to better the old record of Chuck Sample which was 49 feet, 8 inches and was made in 1936.

High point honors in ninth grade competition went to Kay Brach, who scored a first in the 75-yard dash and in the 420-yard run.

In eighth grade competition, Charles Kliefoth, Roosevelt, was the high point winner with first in the 50-yard dash, second in the 100 and a tie for first in the high jump.

Paul Runyan Turns in 68 At PGA Qualifying Round

BY DILLON GRAHAM

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—The Professional Golfers' association realized today that Paul Runyan is a pretty tough little guy when he's riled.

They failed to name the diminutive White Plains, N. Y., pro to the Ryder cup team and "lil' poison" was sort of burned up. He gave the powers-that-be a snappy two-word rebuttal yesterday in the first 18-hole qualifying round of the PGA championship.

The words were: "Sixty-eight." And, as they started the final qualifying round this morning Paul, along with young Byron Nelson, had a two-shot lead over the field. In addition, they were five shots out front of Henry Picard, the best scorer among those selected for Uncle Sam's tussle, with the Britishers in England next month.

Paul felt his record should have put him on the squad. However, they didn't forget Paul altogether, for they named him, along with ten others, to fight it out here and in the United States open in June, for four remaining positions. The low scorers for the six rounds of medal play get the nod.

"I left my wife at home to pack up," Runyan grinned. "I think maybe we'll be going abroad."

As a matter of fact, Runyan wasn't the only one who got mad yesterday. The 11 boys who are still trying to make the team, made the boys who have made it look pretty bad. They averaged a fraction over par 72 to the Ryder cuppers' 76 plus.

Here's the batting average of the two groups:

Cuppers
Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa. 73;
Gene Sarazen, Brookfield Center, Conn. 75; Horton Smith, Chicago, 75; Tony Manero, Peabody, Mass. 78; Johnny Revolta, Evanston, Ill. 78; Denny Shute, Boston, 79.

J. 73; Craig Wood, Rumson, N. J. 75; Ralph Guldahl, Chicago, 75; Ky Laffoon, Chicago, 75; Olin Dutra, Los Angeles, 75; Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. 75.

Tickets on Sale for Braddock-Louis Bout

Chicago—(AP)—Tickets for the world's heavyweight title bout June 22 at Comiskey Park went on sale today as champion James J. Braddock confined his training routine to road work and challenger Joe Louis again donned gloves against several sparmates.

Braddock, ahead of his conditioning schedule, plans to box Wednesday and then skip two days before entering the ring again. He is working out at Grand Beach, Mich., along the Lake Michigan shore.

Louis, who is drilling daily at Kenosha, Wis., is following a plan of boxing Tuesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays. Whereas the titleholder has been boxing for almost a month, Louis donned the gloves for the first time only last Saturday.

Athletics Lose, Yankees Win and Take A. L. Lead

Hubbell Scores 23rd Straight Victory but Has to be Rescued

BY BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer
A KING who still rules though his throne is tottering dangerously and a gang of marauders once again threatening to rip apart the American league, furnished baseball's biggest news today.

The king is Carl Hubbell. The marauders are the Yankees, walk-away champions in the junior circuit last season and now, with their team batting eye regained, back on top of the heap with a full-game advantage over the Philadelphia Athletics, who dropped an 8-6 verdict to the Browns.

Hubbell, credited with the Giants' 4-3 defeat of the National league Pirates yesterday, thereby added the twenty-third pearl to his unbroken string of league triumphs. But the master faltered toward the end, gave up eight of the Bucs' ten hits in the last four innings and had to be rescued in the last of the ninth by Beafy Dick Coffman, who fanned Johnny Dickshot with two out and the bases loaded.

Through their victory, the Giants moved into a virtual tie with the second-place and idle Cardinals. The Yanks, meanwhile, ousted the A's from the American league lead by battering the Indians into 14-0 submission.

Yanks Aren't Fooling
For the fourth day in succession the Ruppert Rifles gave evidence they are no longer fooling. In four days they have won as many games, rolled up 39 runs and collected 58 hits.

Another streak ended in Washington where, though the Tigers beat the Senators, 3-1, Tiger Gerald Walker failed to hit for the first time since the start of the season. Roxie Lawson, six-foot righthander, hung up his seventh victory of the year—a total equalled only by the peerless Hubbell.

The Red Sox, with Jimmy Foss's homer and two doubles pacing a 14-hit attack that gave veteran Rube Walberg his first win, jumped from seventh place to the head of the second division by trimming the White Sox, 9-5. The Browns were unable to come out of the cellar despite their 8-6 defeat of the A's, achieved principally by the heavy hitting of Harland Clift and the neat relief pitching of Jack Knot.

With Max Butcher allowing only six hits and one base on balls, the Dodgers hung up their first shut-out of the season, by a 1-0 score over the Cincinnati Reds. The Ringerlanders dropped into last place behind the idle Phillies.

In the other National league game, Lou Fette and Tex Carleton both turned in six-hit efforts. Fette's fellow-Bucs made better use of their allotment, however, and Boston set back the Cubs, 3-1.

The Title Holders got the first laugh but the Winners got the second in a Riverside Mill league game last night at McKinley school diamond, and as the last laugh always is best, the Winners capped a 10 to 8 decision. It was the first victory for the "Winners."

Title Holders counted four runs in the first and one in the second. In the third the Winners got a run back, both teams tallied three times in the fourth and then the Winners staged a terrific rally that netted them six runs in the fifth. After the Title Holders finished running around they were so tired they couldn't overcome the lead.

Rippl and Burton of the Title Holders hit homers and Malueg got one for the Winners. DeDecker tripled for the Winners and Burton doubled for the Title Holders.

Pittsburgh—G. Two iron-men in every sense are Captain-elect Joe Maras of the Duquesne football team and all-America Mike Basrak, his 1936 predecessor. Basrak played center for three years — and went the full 60 minutes in 17 games. Maras played three full games last season.

SARAZEN OUT FOR GOLF COMEBACK

Stocky little Gene Sarazen, who hasn't been doing so well in recent golf wars, returned to the scene of his early glory to compete in the Professional Golfers' association championship at the sporty Pittsburgh Field club course. He is shown with Jimmy Thomson (left) of Shawnee-On-Delaware, Pa., and Jimmy Demaret (right) of Houston, Tex., at the scene of action.

It May be Chilly but Softball Games Continue

OTHER folks may be complaining that the weather isn't right for sports or for gardening or fishing, but the youngsters in Appleton are finding it perfect for softball games and are getting in their share.

In one recent game the River Rats downed the Black Panthers by a score of 12 to 9. Frawley and Donovan were the battery for the Rats while Johnson pitched for the Panthers. Johnson also hit a home run.

Another game saw the Sacred Heart team defeat McKinley 15 to 11. Knight and Quella pitched.

Milwaukee Drops Third Straight

Brewers are Turned Back By Columbus Red Birds, 8 to 3

Chicago—(P)—It can't be said that the Columbus Red Birds are picking on the "Little fellows" in their fight for a higher rating in the American association pennant race. The scrappy Birds won their third straight game and the series from Milwaukee's champion Brewers yesterday, defeating the current league leaders 8 to 3. The Birds lost Saturday's opener and then swept a double bill from the Brewers Sunday.

Max Macon hung up his seventh victory of the season by holding Milwaukee's sluggers to six hits. The young southpaw was wobbly at the start but pitched shutout ball in the last seven frames. Johnny Rizzo, circuit leading batsman, had two hits in five trips to run his consecutive game hitting streak to 34 contests. The Association record is 43, made by Eddie Marshall of Milwaukee in 1935.

St. Paul defeated Indianapolis 3 to 1 in one of three night games played, winning on a five-hit pitching chore by little Arthur Heering, as his mates batted out 10 safeties off two Tribe hurlers.

Louisville downed Minneapolis 7 to 1, the Colonels getting three runs in the first frame to lead from the start.

In a third night tilt, Kansas City whipped Toledo, 5 to 1 in 12 innings, scoring four runs in the final frame. Gibbs and Sime worked for the Blues and held the Hens to three hits as Dizzy Trout went the distance for the Hens although touched for 15.

Billy Sixty Loses At British Meet

Milwaukee Golf Writer Loses 2 to 1 to Harry Braid

Sandwich, England—(P)—The field of American aspirants for the British amateur golf championship was whittled down to six today, just half of the contingent of 12 that started the quest.

Billy Sixty, perennial contender for the Wisconsin state golf championship, who writes and plays a good game, lost 2 and 1 to Harry Braid, son of the five-time open champion in a continuation of first round play that started yesterday.

Sixty created a mild sensation with his name spelled out in large, golden letters on his golf bag and the day's first gallery saw him take seven strokes and then pick up after hooking his tee shot on the first hole.

Braid, who bears a remarkable resemblance to his famous father, had a better long game than his American opponent but Sixty clung on tenaciously to the end.

The scores:
Sixty—Out 644 553 534-41
Braid 554 553 434-38

Sixty—In 455 655-35
Braid 545 554-45

F. A. Valentine of Southampton, N. Y., entered the second round on a default by K. R. Frazier. Wilford Wehrle, Racine, Wis., was to play later in the day.

Fourth Ward Wood Cutters chalked up two wins at the expense of Hoppies Meat Cutters softball team, 15-4 and 14-0. The Meat Cutters collected only two hits in the first game. They loaded the sacks in the second tilt but the threat ended when Bud Werner fanned two in a row.

Edward Hopfensperger pitched for the Wood Cutters with Bob Green at catch for the first game. The battery for the Meat Cutters was Harvey Helms and Barney Vanden Bogen. In the second game batteries were Bud Werner and Greene for the Wood Cutters and Helms and Clarence Hopfensperger for the Meat Cutters.

Earth From Birthplace of Priest To be Placed at Foot of Statue

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—The clod of earth cut from the soil of the birthplace of Father Marquette in Laon, France, which will be placed at the foot of a statue of the pioneer Jesuit in Prairie du Chien, is now on the high seas, due to arrive soon in New York City.

Senator F. Ryan Duffy, Fond du Lac, Wis., has been notified by the French Ambassador, Georges Bonnet, that the city fathers of Laon are sending the clod of earth to New York, from which it will be shipped directly to the Wisconsin city.

The ceremony will take place on June 1, the three hundredth anniversary of the birth of the French priest who discovered the Upper Mississippi river at Prairie du Chien.

Senator Duffy will pay tribute to the memory of Father Marquette that day on the senate floor, and ceremonies will be held in various parts of the country. A bill has been passed which authorizes the president to issue a proclamation of the anniversary on that day.

Pere Marquette's statue is one of the Wisconsin tributes in Statuary Hall in the capitol.

License Plan Is Seen as Solution To Traffic Problem

Fort Atkinson's Plan Is Found to be Successful

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison—If Appleton city officials are wondering what to do about the bicycle traffic problem they would do well to study Fort Atkinson's successful program to eliminate bicycle accidents and stolen bicycles, the state highway department advised today.

Fort Atkinson was the first city in the country to require the registration and licensing of bicycles, and so well has the plan worked that many other cities are considering or have adopted the same program. Without charge, the city registers and licenses each bicycle, recording the frame serial number and issuing an aluminum star license plate. Each cyclist becomes a member of the safety club organized by the chief of police, signs a pledge to observe rules of safety and gets a cycle operator's permit, which lists safe cycling rules on its back.

Thefts have also been stopped, for recovery is possible within a short period through the registration numbers. Bicycles are kept in good condition through periodic inspections.

Manitowish, Oshkosh and other Wisconsin municipal officials have indicated an interest in the plan.

5 Pastors are Named to Probe Immorality Charges

Milwaukee—(P)—The Milwaukee Ministerial association appointed a committee of five pastors last night to study conditions of immorality and gambling which it said are growing in Milwaukee taverns and night life resorts.

The results of the survey are to be submitted to Police Chief Joseph T. Kluchesky. The committee is scheduled to meet soon to elect a chairman and map out a line of procedure.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

Chapter One
AN INVITATION TO THE BLUFF
I was busy spending more dollars than I like to think about learning that a Shakespeare is found once in many centuries, and Michael was busy spending more than that learning to wear my suits and shirts. Afterward we drifted together into a small apartment on West 80th street and I settled down to writing bad fiction while he massaged my back in his own fashion.

This story proper begins on the February morning when the Skipper's note arrived. We were at breakfast, and the prospect of a fourth consecutive rainy day had lent the finishing touch to the excellent grouch I had been nursing for a week. Due to a long-awaited birthday check from his aunts, Michael's spirits were soaring.

"A swell day, old son," he observed, pinning the check down with the toast tray. My response was brief and to the point. I glanced morosely at the envelope labeled in Miss Farrington's careful hand and added, "There's a note. Aren't you going to read it?"

"You would," said Michael sadly. "Don't miss anything. Sometime when you—Damn it!"

His face fell sufficiently for my satisfaction. So I reached for the note.

"Dear Michael," it read. "Since it is your birthday, Barbara and I enclose this slight remembrance. We should be delighted if you could find it convenient to pay us a short visit next week, as Barbara is not too well and would be better for a little company. Pray ask James also, if he finds it convenient. I shall expect you Friday. Affectionately yours, Martha Farrington."

I glanced at Michael. His face was black and I promptly felt cheerful. "Well?" I said.

"Well, yourself!" he exploded. "Of all the lousy luck—"

I interrupted hastily. "There's another one. Here, I'll read it."

The second note was in the Skipper's scrawling hand.

"Dear Mike,"

Martha has decided that I need company, and I'm afraid that nothing will do but that you and Jimmie pay your devotional in February. The choice this year is Jude Blinshop, but I have heard no talk on the subject. In any event, bring as many people as you like. I'll do what I can. Regards to Jimmie. Love,

Aunt Bob."

Michael, let me here announce, had more relatives than any three people of my acquaintance, but his immediate family consisted of two aunts with whom he had lived as a child. Being unable to tear himself away from the unquestionable swankiness of my suits and ties—as he so kindly informed me—his present residence at Farrington Bluff consisted of an annual visit there in my company. During college this custom had become a fixed one, and by the time of this yarn it was nothing short of an institution. We usually favored the Bluff in May or June when swimming, boating, and fishing were partial compensations. In February it was unthinkable. I glanced at Michael.

Red Hair and Freckles
"We could," he ventured feebly. "have the measles. You could anyway, and—"

"No, we couldn't," I felt rotten enough for anything that morning. "You can take care of your aunts for once in your life. And I warn you. If you drag Gay Palmer out there and explain her to M. Farrington as my fiancée, I'll break your neck!"

Gay Palmer was a young lady in whom Michael had been increasingly engrossed for some months past. A nice kid with red hair and freckles, a little inclined to break furniture when aroused and not too difficult to arouse. Michael, of course, enjoyed it. The deadlier the row, the wilder the reconciliation.

To get back to the story, I was fond of the Skipper. Having no aunts of my own, I had more or less adopted Michael's.

Martha Farrington was small stout and prudish—or at least as nearly so as her over-developed sense of breeding would allow. It was Mike's story—and I have never questioned it—that she presided over his cradle with Emily Post in one hand and the social directory in the other. Ever since I had known him, she had certainly presided over our annual visits, armed with an exceedingly eligible young lady to hurl at Michael's head.

But the Skipper was different. If I had an aunt, I should like her to be like Barbara Farrington. Tall and square, even mannish in appearance, and possessed of a deep musical voice and a pair of tragic looking dark eyes. She wore mostly rough tweeds, could golf like a champion, had taught Mike all he knew about sailing and fishing, and spent her time diverting the attention of her sister's yearly choices from his luckless head. Yes, I was extraordinarily fond of the Skipper.

And so we went. By we I mean Michael, Gay Palmer and myself. Mike consigned me to the rumble-seat with the luggage, pointing out that I should have too much tact to break up the tender tête-à-tête in the front seat and busy assuming me that if the cold got to bad, I could yell at him to stop for coffee—or get under the suitcases where it was probably quite warm. I didn't argue much. Managing to get him to the Bluff in February was a feat not ruthlessly to be jeopardized by a mere four hours' freezing. Generally speaking, I can take it. So I did.

Farrington Bluff stands on a rocky little island connected with the mainland by a none too sturdy but extremely picturesque bridge. Perched directly on the bluff, it looks to the southward over miles of Long Island Sound and to the northward over a long sloping lawn, terminating in water and the bridge. East and west lie rocks and below the rocks, the beaches. The pier and the boathouse stand on the western beach. Between them and the house are the tennis courts, and on the rocks to the east stand the stable and the garage. Over the entire estate towers a collection of beautiful elms. In all, I should say, the island covers about half a mile of dry land.

In the proper season it is pleasant to whirl over the old bridge into the shade of the elms. After a four-hour ride in February it is hardly that. I swore so loudly and so well that Gay rattled applause on the window as we drew up to the house. But my fury was short-lived, for once inside the house I had something more important to think about. M. Farrington was far from unfounded. She was not actually ill, but her hair had grayed appallingly and there were tense, strained lines in her face. I was startled and so, I could see, was Michael.

"What's Wrong?"
We were established in the library almost immediately. Before the numbness was fairly out of my hands and feet M. Farrington was systematically catechizing Michael about his fall and winter activities. With Gay's assistance he launched into a dramatic account of a debutante ball, and I was left to the Skipper, who stood gazing into the fire, the new silver in her hair shining in the light and the knuckles of the brown hand resting on the mantel standing out hard, so tightly was it clenched. As I stared at her broad back, feeling more and more disturbed, whirled and looked me full in the eyes.

"Skipper," I said, grabbing her hand, "what's wrong?"

She smiled. "Great Scott, Jim, do I look as bad as that?" Her voice was natural and easy in its booming. "You're half from M. Mike, take that kid upstairs and pour something into him. He's cold. Time to dress, anyway."

Definitely uncanny. I mounted the stairs with Michael. In my room

Paul Jones Named Police Chief as Ware's Successor

Henry J. Weigel Appointed Assessor to Fill Vacancy Caused by Death

Waupaca — Paul Jones was appointed chief of police by Mayor F. R. Fisher at a special meeting of the city council Monday evening, to take the place of Will Ware, resigned, effective June 1.

Other appointments made by the mayor include that of Henry J. Weigel to fill the unexpired term of O. G. Anderson, assessor, who died May 18, and of Birney Wilson as electrical inspector. All appointments of the mayor were confirmed.

A meeting to arrange for salaries of police officers to conform to the new law regarding them, has been left to the police commission and will be held some time next week.

Mr. Ware, 78, has served the city as chief of police since 1915, and a resolution was adopted by the council and signed by each of the aldermen, expressing appreciation of his services during that time. Mr. Jones was for several years a deputy in the sheriff's department, working under J. O. Hanson during his term of office.

Committee Election

The annual election of the Waupaca county fish and game committee is to be held in the city hall at 8 o'clock Wednesday night. The existing committee includes George Graff, Clintonville; Guy Mumbure, Waupaca; and Fred Abrams, Fremont.

Those elected on the committee will later attend a statewide meeting and they will be accepted as voicing the view of their county on controversial questions of game and fish regulations which are to come before the public this year.

Everyone interested in bag limits, size limits, and other phases of conservation is urged by the conservation department to attend the meeting when these problems will be discussed.

Three large fish were caught at the Chain of Lakes Sunday by local fishermen. An 18-pound northern pike was caught in Long Lake by James Jensen. The fish measured 41 inches in length and was caught on a bamboo pole on a crotle hook.

A German Brown trout weighing 3 pounds and 10 ounces was caught in Rainbow lake by L. D. Brown of the Veterans' Home. Louis Seibert was also lucky in Rainbow lake when he caught a 7 pound 2 ounce German Brown.

A Northern pike weighing 11 pounds and measuring 36 inches was caught last week in the Crystal river near Parfreyville.

The fish were on display at the Leader Hardware store Monday.

Constitution In 150th Year Looks Good For 500 More To Manuscript Experts

BY ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

Washington — (AP) — Whatever the outcome of congressional and court wrangling over the constitution, the document itself—now in its 150th year—is expected to last for at least 500 more years.

The writing has faded some but still is legible and the original four pieces of parchment—287 by 234 inches each—are in excellent preservation, according to manuscript experts at the Library of Congress.

The fading was arrested in 1921 when the document was transferred from the state department to a marble shrine in the library which feeds the actinic rays of the sun by an amber screen between the plates of glass.

It was May 25, 150 years ago, when the "founding fathers"—most of them mere youngsters—got down to the difficult business of framing the constitution.

Delegates in their 30s outnumbered any other age group at the historic convention in Philadelphia and the average age was about 42, as compared with the 57 average of the United States senate today.

Nearly Wrecked In July

Founding Father James Madison was 36 and his Virginia colleague, Governor Edmund Randolph, 33. Pennsylvania's one-legged, brilliant Gouverneur Morris was 35, Massachusetts' able Rufus King, 32, South Carolina's Charles Pinckney, 29, and New York's great Alexander Hamilton only 30.

George Washington, convention president, was 55, while oldest of the 55 "clear-headed, firm-purposed but willing to compromise" delegates was the 81-year-old master conciliator, Dr. Benjamin Franklin.

Battles between the large and small states, combined with witting heat and the onslaught of lively stable flies threatened to wreck the convention in July.

Compromise On Congress

The major conflict was over proportional representation in the national legislature.

The large states' plan, originally offered by the Virginia delegation, called for representation in both houses on a population basis.

150 YEARS AGO IN PHILADELPHIA

Hard at work on composition of the constitution are (l. to r.) James Wilson of Pennsylvania, Alexander Hamilton of New York (bending over desk);

James Madison of Virginia, George Washington of Virginia, and Robert Morris of Pennsylvania. Benjamin Franklin of Pennsylvania is seated at right and Daniel Carroll of Maryland is at lower center.

The small states' plan, presented by New Jersey, was to continue the confederated idea of a single house and an equal state vote.

The Connecticut compromise finally adopted provided for lower house representation of the states on a population basis and an upper house elected by an equal vote.

Many proposals of the delegates would seem almost fantastic to modern politicians. Randolph, who introduced the Virginia plan, wanted an executive authority composed of three men because he feared a single executive would make the government too much like a monarchy.

Hamilton, advocate of a strong central government, suggested the President be given an absolute veto on acts of congress.

Some wanted the President to be elected by congress and Governor Morris urged that he serve for life. He also proposed life terms for senators, to be appointed by the President, and objected to distribution of representatives on a population basis only.

"Not liberty," said Morris, "but property is the main object of society."

Franklin Champions Poor

Charles Finckney, another "property man," would have required

a property qualification of $100,000 for the Presidency, $50,000 for a judgeship, and like proportions for congressmen.

Replied Dr. Franklin: "I dislike everything which tends to debase the spirit of the common people. If this constitution should betray a great partiality to the rich it will not only hurt us in the esteem of the most liberal and enlightened men in Europe but will discourage the common people from removing to this country."

He urged that the President serve without salary with only his necessary expenses paid.

Librarian Talks At Rotary Meet

Tells How Clintonville Institution Can be of Service to Community

Clintonville — Miss Alice Faust, librarian at the Finney public library of this city, was the guest speaker at the Monday noon luncheon of the Rotary club at Hotel Marson.

Members of the library board were invited to the meeting as special guests of the Rotarians. After her talk, Miss Faust rendered a vocal solo, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. W. H. Finney.

Miss Edith Gray directs the glee clubs and Edson Stiles is the director of the orchestra and band.

About 25 members of the Clintonville Council Knights of Columbus were at New London Sunday where the second and third degrees were conferred upon a class of candidates.

The second degree work was exemplified by the New London officers and the officers from Portage exemplified the third degree. Following the formalities, a banquet was served to the knights and their ladies at the Legion club house.

B. E. Miller, state warden, Anton Bohr and James Malliet are attending the state convention of the Knights of Columbus being held at Fond du Lac Monday and Tuesday.

Clintonville Riverside rollers won their first inter-club tournament of the season Sunday at Springfield golf course, New London. About 20 players from each club took part in the event.

Women of Riverside club will hold their weekly tournament Thursday afternoon at the local course.

Mr. and Mrs. August Volkman of Iron Ridge were weekend guests at the home of their son, Eugene Volkman and family. Other guests of Mr. and Mrs. Volkman on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Krueger of Appleton and Mr. and Mrs. Nick Dollsch of Oshkosh. The two latter couples were classmates of Mr. and Mrs. Volkman at the Oshkosh State Teachers college.

About 75 couples attended a dancing party given Saturday evening at the Odd Fellow hall in honor of the fifteenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Muench of this city. Out of town relatives were present from Ogdensburg and Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Meyer and son Jack spent Saturday with friends at East De Pere and on Sunday went to Oshkosh where they were guests at the home of the former's brother, Otto Meyer.

How Appleton Grew Under Its 30 Mayors Since 1857

(This is the fifteenth of a series of articles discussing Appleton's mayors and the important matters occurring during their administration. These articles will appear once a week in the Post-Crescent.)

BY LLOYD J. DERUS

The term of O. W. Glark as Appleton's mayor in 1879 was marked by the establishment of a number of new industries in the city. Among those which began operations that year were the Valley Pulp and Paper company, Kelly Bros. Woolen mills and a boot and shoe factory.

The Appleton Telephone company was organized before the end of his term with 23 patrons. Organization of the company gave added stimulus to the new "luxury" business.

The Milwaukee and northern extension of the Lake Shore railroad, which located at Kaukauna that year, reached Appleton. Capital of the First National bank was increased from $75,000 to $100,000.

Residents of the Fourth ward were urging the common council to purchase a fire steamer for that ward. The Spaulding stove factory burned with an estimated loss of $10,000.

Miss Sophia Walker, a student at the Lawrence university, was publisher of Wisconsin's first magazine, "Badger State Monthly."

Theodore Conkey, long prominent in the city's civic affairs died in 1879. He laid out the territory of Grand Chute in 1849 and had planned at that time to call it Martin instead of Grand Chute.

at the temple until the end of June. The sermon by the Rev. Robert K. Bell, pastor, was entitled "The Fine Art of Living."

"Soul and Body" was the subject of the lesson-sermon Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist. The following is a passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. "Become conscious for a single moment that life and intelligence are purely spiritual—neither in nor of matter—and the body will then utter no complaints. If suffering from a belief in sickness, you will find yourself suddenly well. Sorrow is turned into joy when the body is controlled by spiritual life, truth and love. There is but one way—namely, God and His idea—which leads to spiritual being."
